Suspicious of Santa

Brittany Smith wasn't about to go near that guy with the red suit and white beard. Brittany, 14 months old, wanted the balloon, but had no idea what Santa Claus was all about. She didn't realize it, but she was the last child with the opportunity to sit on the lap of Wilmington's Santa Noel. See Page 3.

Callan mounts strong challenge to recall

A claim that only 1104 signatures on the petition to recall Shirley Callan from the Wilmington School Committee are valid is currently under consideration by the Board of Registrars. A total of 1107 signatures of registered voters are required to hold the recall election. The Board of Registrars now has 14 days to issue a decision on whether the February 2 recall election has been "properly scheduled."

The board held two public hearings this week to hear evidence from Dr. Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen. Callan's attorney, David Klebanoff of Gilman, McLaughlin, and Hanrahan of Boston, challenged the petition on several counts in the first hearing Monday night.

Klebanoff claimed some petitioners misrepresented the purpose of the petition. Witnesses Robert and Debra Bryant and Debra Lecese all said under oath they were told the petition concerned "the way the hazing was handled." They said although they did not read the actual document, there was no mention that the petition was actually to recall the two committeemen. They asked that their names be removed from the petition. Two other residents who were away until Wednesday also came forward to challenge the petition, said the lawyer.

Klebanoff next maintained a total of 17 signatures were invalid because they were "clearly" forged and a total of 21 signatures were miscounted by the registrars. The alleged forgeries were by people who most likely signed for a spouse or son or daughter, the attorney said.

Klebanoff also challenged the petition on three legal counts. He said if the charges were not taken into consideration by the registrars, he would pursue them in court. The most damaging charge was an alleged violation of the election laws, which state that three or more registrars must certify all names on the petition. Klebanoff stated that 95 signatures were only certified by two registrars and were invalid. This charge alone could invalidate the recall election, he added.

Klebanoff claimed the board of selectmen were not in possession of the names of ten percent of registered voters when the letter asking for the resignations was sent out. He said 44 signatures were certified afterwards. In addition, Klebanoff said the petition itself was defective and did not meet the requirements for a petition for recall since it does not call for others to seek the two seats in the election.

Besides the witnesses called by Klebanoff, several residents came forward to speak on the recall process. While Walter Kowalchik of Longview Road said he was suspicious when the petitioner who approached him evaded his answers, petitioner Lawrence Kaufman argued that anyone who signed the petition sight unseen was "giving away his right anyway."

Kaufman maintained " people knew what they were signing."

Robert Scarano, an attorney acting for petition leader Kathi Gillis, said the alleged forgeries should not be considered as evidence unless an expert testifies that they are. Klebanoff said, if the case goes to court, he would call in a handwriting expert.

Ring Avenue resident Tony Capuano complained about the recall and charged that "what we're doing is . . . we're wasting alot of our time (and) the taxpayers' money." Callan told this paper, if she pursues the matter in court, "the legal cost will be a minimum of $4,000 for the town." It has been stated publicly that the recall election could cost the town upwards of $4,000 also.

Gillis argued that those accused of forging names should be allowed time to answer the accusations, especially since they were not present and were not told in advance what charges would be brought up. After conferring with registrars Gertrude Condrey, Ed Souza, and Audrey Riddle, Town Counsel Alan Altman agreed to recess the hearing until Tuesday night at 8 p.m.

After the hearing, Callan and Klebanoff chafed at the delay. Klebanoff told this paper, "For a group of people who want this to go away, this doesn't seem to accomplish what they're looking for." He added, should the charges made be upheld by the registrars, the leaders of the petition drive would have a right to start over and collect names for another election.

Gillis said she was ready to do just that immediately should the decision favor Callan. She added, however, that the petitioners did their job and "it can't be ruled invalid."

Steve Burns had signed the petition and was angered by the possibility that the Board of Registrars may have made a mistake.

"This town, right from the top on down, they're not doing their jobs. They're pushing this thing under the rug," he said. Others speculated that the Board of Registrars may have been under pressure from some selectmen to finish the certifications ahead of their deadline.

Shawsheen School parent Sue Liberty came to the hearing to support Callan. She was angered by Altman's decision to recess.

"I found it odd that Alan had to finish this tonight and all of a sudden we're going to recess until tomorrow night. He set the policy; he should have stuck with it," she said.

McMenimen questions petition signatures

by Arlene Surprenant

It took only 20 minutes for Wilmington School Committee member Linda McMenimen to present evidence Tuesday and for the Board of Registrars to wrap up the second of two public hearings on the recall of she and fellow member Dr. Shirley Callan. Both are under recall for allegedly speaking on their committee's behalf and leaking confidential information about the recent football hazing incident to the media. Both have denied the charge.

The hearing was held to allow McMenimen to file objections to a total of 138 names on the recall petition against her and to hear testimony of witnesses. A total of 1153 registered voters signed the petition to recall McMenimen from office. In order to schedule the February 2 recall election, the names of 1107 residents were needed.

In a letter to Town Clerk Kay Scanlon dated November 27, McMenimen objected to the signatures in question for four main reasons. She said some petitioners misrepresented the reason for the petition and there was a miscount of valid signatures by the board. McMenimen next questioned the validity of several signatures saying they appeared to be "ma and pa" type signatures where one person signed for another. She also maintained the grounds listed for the recall were unsubstantiated and not a valid reason for a recall.

McMenimen told the board in summation, "I will rely on your fair and unbiased opinion (in handing down a decision)."

McMenimen chose not to be represented by an attorney or to call any witnesses. Nor did she go into details on any of the names in question.

Robert Scarano, attorney for Kathi Gillis, one of the leaders of the recall drive, noted that it was incumbent upon McMenimen to present "affirmative evidence" of the signatures she was challenging. If that was not possible, he said, her statement should be stricken from the record.

Following McMenimen's hearing, the Board of Registrars reopened the earlier hearing for Callan, which had recessed Monday, to allow for further witnesses to come forward. Town Counsel Alan Altman, who was representing the board, noted the addition of two affadavits to supplement the record. One was written by Scanlon to correct an error made by her. Scanlon said she had mistakenly put the wrong date of November 24 on three pages of Callan's petition rather than the actual date of November 23. On Monday, Callan's counsel David Klebanoff claimed the signatures on those pages were invalid because they were certified after the board of selectmen sent out a letter seeking the resignation of the two committee members.

The second affadavit was signed by the registrars and said "by reason of omission, error, and oversight" only two registrars signed four of the pages. They said it was their intent to have all registrars sign all pages of the petition. Altman said all four pages have now been recertified and contain four signatures.

Scarano spoke on behalf of the recall leaders. He presented affadavits from or called upon seven residents who swore the signature on the petitions was their own and they fully understood the intent of the petitions. Scarano objected to Klebanoff's referencing the Massachusetts Code of Regulations of the election board in earlier statements that three or more registrars' signatures are needed to certify names on a recall petition.

"Recall petitions are not a state matter," he said.

Scarano objected to other challenges made by Callan's attorney. He said the face of the petition was legal because it referenced the Town Charter, which spells out the need for a successor to Callan. He also maintained sufficient signatures existed prior to action by the board of selectmen to seek Callan's resignation.

The Board of Registrars will make a decision on the legality of the recall election and the testimony heard both nights within the next 14 days.

Dept. of Education investigates complaint

by Arlene Surprenant

A complaint charging that the Wilmington School System is in violation of the state's anti-hazing law is under investigation by the Massachusetts Department of Education.

Daniel French, director of the Department of Education's Bureau of Student Development and Health, confirmed this week an investigation is underway.

"Anyone is allowed to file a complaint alleging a violation. We review the complaint and come up with findings," French told the Town Crier. He added that it is in everyone's best interest to resolve the issue as soon as possible.

The matter was first raised by Anne Linehan at last week's school committee meeting. She said that in checking with the Department of Education she found that the system was not in compliance. She said later neither Supt. William Fay nor high school Principal Paul Fleming filed an anti-hazing report with the state verifying that each student and student organization in the school had read and understood the relatively new state law. She also questioned if each advisor and coach at the school had signed a paper stating their students had read the law and understood the penalties.

Fleming told this paper Tuesday he did not file the report, which was due October 23.

"I'm not making any excuses. It just went by me," he said. He added however that every student is aware of the law and was obligated, with their parents, to read and sign a form attesting they did review the law and the school discipline code as outlined in the school handbook. Though the handbook was given out late this year because of some necessary changes, Fleming said it still stands from one year to the next.

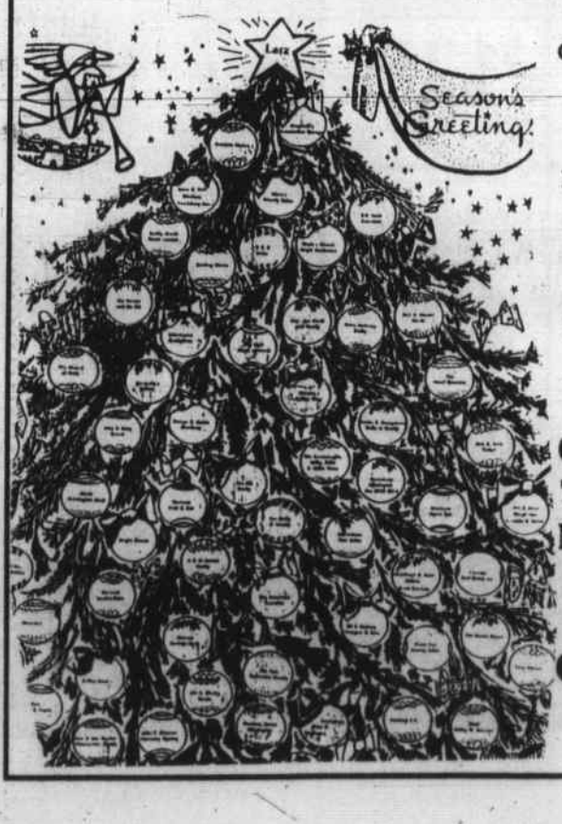

A memo from Education Commissioner Robert Antonucci was sent to school officials on September 16 outlining the guidelines of the anti-hazing law. Fleming said he doesn't remember ever seeing the memo, but added it could have been overlooked. Linehan claims that the memo was "held up in Bill Fay's office" and never went to the principal.

The law states that each student group, team, or organization should receive copies of the law and a designated officer of each group must attest that it has been received and students understand and plan to obey the law. Linehan disagreed with sentiment expressed last week that not sending in the report was "just a technicality."

"This was handled wrong from the very beginning. We have not done it (complied fully with the law) for the past three years. I want it brought into compliance," she said.

Local post offices open two Saturday afternoons

The Postal Service is extending its business hours to help make this holiday mailing season more convenient," said Philip Dennis, Woburn District Manager of Customer Service. Mr. Dennis announced that the following post offices or postal stations will be open longer hours and begin lobby director programs to help speed postal customers through the process of mailing packages and cards this holiday season.

Mr. Dennis added, "In the Middlesex Essex District offices will also be open Saturdays and Sundays for the first time.

Tewksbury and Wilmington are among the offices that will be extending their window hours until 5 p.m. Saturdays December 12 and 19.

In addition to these extended hours on Saturday, the Andover, Lowell and Washington Street, Woburn offices will also be open from noon to 5 p.m. Sundays December 13 and 20.

Beginning November 27 and continuing through December 24, the following malls will have postal stations.

Liberty Tree Mall, Danvers, Monday-Saturday, noon to 7 p.m.; Sunday noon to 6 p.m.

Methuen Mall, November 27 through December 23, Monday-Sunday noon to 6 p.m.

Woburn Mall, November 27-December 22, Monday-Saturday from noon to 6:30 p.m.; Sunday noon to 6 p.m.

In addition transportation will be added and other resources utilized to insure that during this holiday mailing season people in the Middlesex Essex area receive the highest quality service from their Postal Service.

Postmaster General Marvin Runyon said, in a speech before the National Press Club in Washington DC, on November 18, "7,200 of our larger post offices, lobby directors will assist customers in busy periods and, we are expanding hours of business in more than 5,200 of or largest post offices nationwide."

Off to Boston

Sixth grade students from Wilmington's North Intermediate School took the train to Boston on Friday for a "walk 'til you drop" tour of the city. Sites toured included Boston Garden, Chinatown, Faneuil Hall and Quincy Market. They were accompanied by Frank Birmingham, Larry deGeorge, Melissa Cahill and Ann Sheehan.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In a recent Outdoors Column, the author focused on the need for the use of blaze orange by all hunters during the firearm hunting season. As an avid hunter, I am in complete agreement. To illustrate his point, the author also wrote that many times during his numerous trips to the woods he has aimed or pointed his firearm at a sound emanating from some cover to see what emerges. I have read the article over several times to determine if he made an honest mistake in his assertion. I have determined that he did not.

Any qualified hunter who has been through a mandatory hunter safety course knows the 10 commandments of safe firearm handling. The National Rifle Association has promulgated those 10 commandments for several generations. Aiming or pointing one's firearm at a sound or anything other than a well established target is absolutely unacceptable. The author of this article should be ashamed and should apologize to all hunters and non-hunting firearm owners who have accepted the rights of the the Second Amendment with responsibility and honor.

In New Hampshire, I have 42 acres of which I hunt. The land is not posted which means that anyone may hunt on it so long as they do so responsibly. From this date forward, it will be posted, but only for the author of this shameful column.

Sincerely,
Wes Moore

Dear Mr. Moore:

It is with deep humility that I must admit to writing such a stupid thing. Yes, I did point my rifle at a sound, which means that I did, de facto, break a commandment. The incident was real, and not fiction.

While it can't save me from your outrage, I would like to outline the circumstances, if I may.

First, I was in heavy brush at the time, and I expected the deer, and I truly thought it was a deer, to step clear within feet of my position, not yards. Thus, swinging a rifle from "Port Arms" after the deer became visible would have been rewarded with a fleeing tail, if not a hoof to the side of my head.

Second, I kept my finger beside the trigger guard, as is my custom. That much motion would have been undetectable, I thought.

Third, my whole point was that I found myself in a textbook "sound shot" situation, but refused to take the shot. I am adamantly opposed to "sound shots" and to the slobs who are stupid enough to take them.

Finally, I offer you my apology. I'm committed to safe hunting, for myself and others, but I did goof. While I have no idea where your property in New Hampshire is, just put up a sign that Bill Conlon isn't welcome and I'll steer clear of it, with heavy heart. --BC

Dear Larz:

Now is the time to see what kind of intestinal fortitude the Wilmington School Committee has!

They have picked a new superintendent who has a glowing resume although she has never been associated with a school system that has the kind of excellence that we all would like to see in Wilmington.

The school committee has been dominated recently by members who are, or were members of organized unions (or associations as they would call themselves). These unions have fixed ideas about what we should expect from individuals and what should be included in contracts. I don't believe any member of one of these unions (or associations) should negotiate or vote on the approval of these contracts as a member of our school committee.

I hope the new superintendent is a spectacular addition to our school system. However, if she doesn't have enough confidence in her own abilities to believe she can convince the school committee to extend her contract after 18 months or less, then the school committee should decline to employ this person. We are in no position to gamble with the education of our children over an extended period.

If this situation develops, the school committee could appoint an acting superintendent from a pool of qualified individuals who have retired from the same position in other towns. The result would give us another expert opinion of how our school system should develop from here. I believe this has been done in other surrounding towns.

I am

Sincerely,
Daniel Devine,
parent, taxpayer, voter

PLANNING FOR COLLEGE COSTS

Paying for a youngster's college education isn't easy, and the middle-income family - too rich to qualify for grants and low cost loans, too poor to just pay out-of-pocket - have a big problem. Getting at the needed cash is often a matter of smart borrowing.

Consider a home equity loan, usually available for 80 percent of the owner's equity in the house. It offers a big chunk of cash at a relatively attractive rate of interest - which is deducible on loans up to $100,000. Another plus: lowering equity may make the parent eligible for financial aid.

Life insurance loans are another option. Much of the cash value can be borrowed and rates are reasonable. If interest is not paid, it's subtracted from cash value; if the policyholder dies before repaying the loan, the amount will be subtracted from the death benefit.

Borrowing from profit sharing and 401(k) plans is permitted in some companies. Payback must be made within five years.

Have interest rates on your investments got you down?

Many investors today have been faced with this dilemma:

How can I get better return than those available in CD's and money markets, without taking undue risk with my money?

There ARE some good alternatives to bank CD's that maybe you should explore; such as double Tax Free Funds, International Money Market Accounts, and other good quality bond and utility funds that can pay substantially more.

Before you antomatically renew your present CD, why not give me a call. There is no obligation, and I do not charge fees to discuss the various options available to you.

After 20 years, Santa Noel hangs up his whiskers

Santa will still set up his workshop at the Wilmington Recreation Dept. office in the Town Hall every year, but Santa Noel has hung up his whiskers.

Larry Noel did his last appearance as Santa on Sunday night, closing out a tradition that has lasted for 20 years. More than one youngster has said after sitting in Larry's lap that this was the real Santa Claus.

Recreation Director Ron Swasey gave Larry a cake to mark the end of his career.

Larry was honored as one of Wilmington's Good Guys about 15 years ago. A long-time member of the Recreation Commission, he is known for his dedication to kids.

For many years, Larry split the Santa duties with Sam Bertwell of Chestnut Street. Wilmington had Sam-ta and Santa Noel. Now both of them have retired.

On Monday night, a new Santa was on duty, one who needed no pillows to fill out the large red suit.

One nine-year-old had done his homework on writing his list to Santa. Here is the list he gave to Santa on Sunday night. All spelling is exactly as written.

Larry Noel wrapped up his last Christmas season on Santa's throne at the Wilmington Rec Dept. on Sunday night. Ron Swazey presented him with a cake, marking the Last Noel.

The Last Noel

A few tales from Santa

Santa had a few tales to tell after his stint at Santa's Workshop.

With a five year-old on one knee and his eight-year-old brother on the other. The younger brother was cute, but the older one was wise to Santa.

The eight-year-old wanted to know if Santa could prove he was the real Santa. He had a test. He asked Santa if he could tell him what he got for Christmas last year.

Santa replied that he got everything he asked for.

The boy was surprised that he knew that. Then he asked if Santa could name one present.

Santa replied that he seemed to remember bringing a Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle. Did he pass the test?

The boy said, "You must be the real Santa."

On Monday night, a little girl asked how he could get down the chimney.

Santa said that with a big bag of toys, it wasn't very easy, but that he always managed to do it.

She told Santa to be careful, because they were going to have a fire in the fireplace.

Santa told her to be sure and leave the front door unlocked.

Shawsheen PAC expands role

by Arlene Surprenant

The changing role of Wilmington's Parent Advisory Committees (PAC) was highlighted last Wednesday by Shawsheen School PAC President Bonny Smith and school Principal Richard Gorham.

Gorham told members of the school committee the PAC was originally formed to meet with the principal and become informed about the school program.

"It certainly isn't the case any more," he said.

Gorham and Smith explained, though the Shawsheen PAC still sponsors such fundraising activities as the Harvest Pie Auction and the Pancake Breakfast, it has branched out in a number of areas. Today, the PAC provides enrichment programs such as a Poetry Month, the Mathathon, and the Magic of Maps that coordinate with the curriculum. Members participate in community projects like serving on the Superintendent Search Committee and petitioning the legislature for more local aid for education. Most of all, they support the academic program with their presence and funds. Gorham pointed out the PAC provides a $50 line of credit to each teacher in the school for classroom use and five dollars to each student to supplement field trips. Members also run the six week after-school program in the spring and the Saturday kindergarten program, are trained in Project Charlie, and help out with Field Day.

Perhaps the PAC's proudest accomplishment, and the project which makes the school unique, said Gorham, is the mini-grant program. In the three years since it's been in existence, the PAC has donated $9,000 to staff members in the form of mini grants to primarily pay for enhancement and aides in language arts, science, and math.The teachers apply to a grant committee comprised of parents, teachers, students, and one administrator which decides which of the applications or projects would be funded.

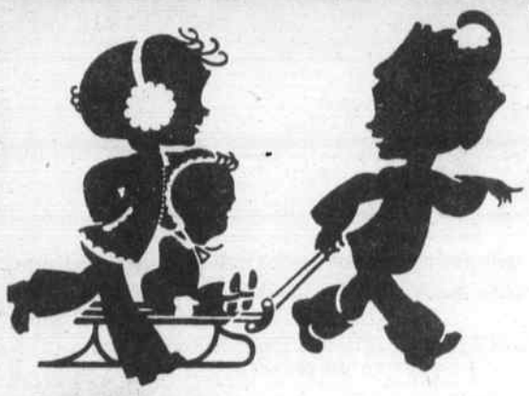

Committee members praised the PAC for expanding their efforts and helping all the students in the school.

Dear Larz:

We know that the recall election of Dr. Shirley Callan and Linda McMenimen is going to take place. We believe that this recall is wrong in as much as it continues to dangle the hazing issue in everyone's face. Whether or not we support the way the hazing was handled, it's a done deed. We hear cries of "let's forget it, let's put it behind us and get on with business." Yet this community will be unable to do that until this recall is put to rest. We also believe that it's inappropriate to use $3000 of this town's money to run a special election when it is so desperately needed elsewhere.

By speaking out publicly, we do not think that Dr. Callan and Mrs. McMenimen intentionally meant to hurt our children. If anything, their intent was to protect them. They have shown again and again their concern for the welfare of Wilmington's kids.

Mr. Ballou is so quick to fault Dr. Callan and Mrs. McMenimen for their "crime," yet we don't see his involvement in this recall while being a member of the board of selectmen to be a whole lot different. Is his leading this recall any less damaging to the community than the damage he claims them to have caused? This recall perpetrates continued media coverage and focus on Wilmington regarding the hazing issue. If their actions were interpreted to be representative of the entire school board, are not Mr. Ballou's actions representative of his entire board? We think not. They are community members acting out emotionally over a very emotional issue.

Wilmington is festering right now. Angry words of this one out to get that one and this one disliking that one are tearing this town apart. We have somehow lost our focus. We have all but forgotten that there were victims of this crime of hazing which everyone seems to have agreed took place. These victims will continue to suffer until this recall is over and probably for a long time after that.

Wilmington is an intelligent community with a large population of people who care about this town and what happens in it. It is time to stop the mud slinging and let us get out of the limelight and begin to heal. It is time to get back on track and let these two important boards get on with the business they were elected to do; run this town effectively and help to create the best educational system we can deliver to our children.

We would like to urge all of you who do not support the recall to get out to the polls and say so.

Sincerely
Karen Swartwout,
and 13 other parents

Future Town Crier newsnote ?

U.S. troops have been called into Wilmington to restore order and return the school committee to the role of setting educational policy for the public schools. In their initial engagement, troops were forced to take cover when the committee unleashed a bombardment of the closest books at hand, Robert's Rules of Disorder.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

(Second in a two part series on the recalled school committee members.)

It was a cold, Tuesday night on November 23 and the McMenimen family was preparing for Thanksgiving Day at their small ranch house on Grace Drive. The political season was as harsh as the wind outside and the McMenimens were doing their best to keep it from subduing the holiday spirit. The television in the living room carried the local government cable channel and the volume was up higher than usual.

It was a big night which distracted Linda McMenimen's family from stuffing the plump turkey and baking traditional pies. In a few moments it would be hard to give thanks. The selectmen had just convened in special session to receive the certification report from the town clerk and board of registrars. More than 1,100 citizens had signed the petitions for the recall of McMenimen and her colleague Shirley Callan. The hazing incident would soon spill over to the ballot box.

It was not a matter of legal formalities. Linda McMenimen, just re-elected to the school committee last April following a long career in office, had been recalled. A constable arrived that same evening to deliver formal notice. McMenimen could resign or face the voters in a special election. Happy Thanksgiving.

McMenimen was first elected the year Jimmy Carter was campaigning for president. She served from 1976 to 1985 and established herself as "a woman of highest integrity," according to School Committee Chairman Robert Peterson. The local attorney has battled over issues with McMenimen for six years but nonetheless respects her as "emotionally sound and current in every issue," despite the fact that he's voted with her "maybe twice in six years."

McMenimen's resume is as impressive as it is sound. She has her bachelor's degree in education and history from Emanual College, a masters in reading and language from UMass, Lowell and her CAGS (Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study) in education administration from UMass, Boston. McMenimen lists certifications to each at both the elementary and secondary levels and in special reading classes. She's also certified for the posts of elementary and secondary school principals, assistant superintendent and superintendent. McMenimen has been teaching for 25 years. In 1990 her colleagues at Greater Lowell Vocational Technical High school voted her teacher of the year.

But today, a group of voters, self-annointed as the local, moral majority, is ready to throw the resume to the wind. It's ironic because McMenimen's professional record has been the anchor of her appeal to local voters. "She's not political at all," said Robert Peterson, who believes voters supported McMenimen because they admired the absence of political connections.

McMenimen said that last year's race cost her a paltry $250 and that her political machine resides with her on Grace Drive. Peterson said it was the only politically romantic "machine" he's ever observed in operation. "Her campaign was her and Joe; one took the Wildwood School and the other took the Glen Road," said Peterson, referencing McMenimen's husband and the two municipal poling places.

What McMenimen lacks in political organization and local storm troopers her opponents have unfortunately made up for. The leaders of the recall are Wilmington's most prominent and politically savvy citizens. McMenimen is fighting the local royal guard, including veteran Selectman Dan Ballou and Town Manager Mike Caira; who hails from the community's most politically seasoned and statute family. Both are parents of football team players.

The contrast is striking and some have said McMenimen will not be able to survive as the odds have been stacked against her. Perhaps the difference between McMenimen and her opponents is no more stark than that between she and her fellow embattled colleague. When Shirley Callan appeared at a special meeting of the board of registrars this week she was accompanied by a rather expensive looking attorney-at-law.

McMenimen, like her political campaigns, brought only herself and a good measure of determination.

McMenimen's alleged crime is that she leaked graphic information to the press hounds concerning the details of the now infamous events at summer football camp. Her detractors consider this blasphemy and are erecting the scaffold for a double political execution. But McMenimen said that details were first released to her by school officials and to this day she doesn't know the identity of perpetrators. 'I have never named individual students and never would," said McMenimen. "After 25 years in the classroom I wouldn't be able to hurt a student. It goes against everything I have worked for and fought for."

As a public defense McMenimen proposes that her actions have centered around one guiding principle and belief. "Hazing is wrong and I'm guilty of holding back the broom that would have swept it under the rug," said McMenimen, who credits her family and her colleagues at Lowell Voke for helping to maintain her stamina over the past weeks.

Nonetheless, local colleagues see a strain building on McMenimen "This thing has devastated her emotionally," said Robert Peterson, noting that McMenimen recently left a meeting apparently in tears. The school committee chairman said McMenimen's ability to stand up and continue to fight has been a "testament to her character." Character is what people reference frequently when asked for their impressions of Linda McMenimen, who seems to provoke a softened emotional chord from colleagues in comparison to Shirley Callan. "My biggest impression of Linda is that no matter how strongly we might disagree on an issue she consistently leaves that disagreement at the table when the meeting is over," said School Committeeman Brad Jackson. "She's always open to different points of view," he said adding diplomatically that McMenimen and Callan "are different and approach issues differently."

Robert Peterson views this election in simple terms. "I think these two were scapegoated for the whole process," which Peterson believes was flawed by more than just two people who made mistakes. 'I think she probably said some things she shouldn't have, and I've told her that, but the punishment certainly doesn't fit the crime," and Peterson views others in the community who are culpable here "but can't be recalled." Peterson said, "A lot of people did things wrong."

McMenimen's strain won't end for a while. She said the first and last thing on her mind each day is the pending recall and that "it's put a dent in the holidays, to say the least." Maybe more than that, It's destroyed any attraction that may have been left in the concept of serving in municipal government.

Robert Peterson said it best. "No one who runs for a seat that pays nothing should expect to put up with this crap."

The December 14, 1967 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

The planning board was told by Town Engineer Arthur Harding that a flight survey of Wilmington was made by the firm of Lockwood, Kessler & Bartlett of Cambridge. The survey would provide stereoscopic maps of Wilmington and would cost the town $3,215.

John Ross was pictured at the Wildwood School lunch milk and dessert table choosing between the milk at three cents or dessert at five cents. John decided on two desserts and spent a dime.

According to Nosey Nancy, Robin Sullivan, daughter of Gladys and Tom Sullivan and Robin's horse Torchgal received many and varied awards at a banquet of the Essex County Horse Breeders Association.

Samuel Levine, Harry Solow and Benjamin Jacobs were pictured displaying plaques awarded them at a surprise testimonial honoring their years of service to the Jewish community.

Also according to Nancy, Richard Doucette of Faulkner Avenue was among the football award winners at Northland College in Ashland, Wisconsin, where he was a freshmen.

Poloian's real estate offered an older seven room colonial with studio apartment at $18,900.

The December 8, 1982 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Norine Bacigalup of Whipple Road was appointed national chairperson of the annual fund for Suffolk University's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and School of Management.

Tewksbury Students Ha Chun Chun and Dean Michael Sutherland were inducted into the National Honor Society at Austin Prep.

Roger Daley was elected to serve on the Middlesex Community College (MCC) Student Senate. A dean's list student at MCC, Roger was second year lab tech student.

Freshman Robbi Aylward completed 85 percent of his football passes for the season.

K of C earns Colombian Award

Knights of Columbus Council #4982 of Wilmington is a Columbian Award recipient for the 1991-92 fraternal year. The award is presented for excellence in the sponsorship of programs that serve families, church, youth and community as well as Council members.

The announcement of the award was made by the K of C international headquarters in new Haven, Ct. Local District Deputy Alfred O'Connor presented the engraved plaque to the Council at a ceremony held during the business meeting of December 3.

Supreme Knight Virgil Dechant, president of the international organization, in recognizing the local recipient, said:

"Please accept my sincere congratulations upon attaining this prestigious award.

The dedication to the principles and aims of the Order shown by your officers and members is exemplified by the high standard of excellence you have achieved. At the same time, I encourage you to carry forward this enthusiasm to meet the challenges that will face the K of C in the years ahead. May this award be a reminder and an inspiration to the members of your Council to continue to promote the ideals of Columbianism for the good of the Church, your community and the Order."

In accepting the award, Grand Knight Americo Enos, head of the local Council said "Receiving this award is quite an honor. We're very pleased with our Council's accomplishments."

The K of C is a Catholic, family, fraternal service organization with 1.5 million dues paying members worldwide. In 1991, they gave more than 41 million hours of volunteer service and donated over $95 million to charitable and benevolent causes.

Toys for Tots

For the next several Saturdays, the Toys for Tots program will have a collection box located at the Wilmington Recycling Center off Route 38 near the Woburn line. Residents are asked to take one or more new, unwrapped toys and leave them at the center during their weekly visit. All kinds of toys for children of all ages are welcome as long as they are new and not wrapped (so they can be sorted by age and gender).

The Toys for Tots program was set up in 1947 by the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve to provide needy children with the simple joy of a new toy for Christmas. Because the Marine Reserve collects and distributes new toys during the holiday season, the parents of some three million children will be spared the pain of saying, "I'm sorry, but Santa isn't coming this year."

The Recycling Center is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and toys will be collected through December 12. For more information on the Toys for Tots program, call 1st Sgt. Grigg, NMCRC, Toys for Tots, North Parish Road, No. Andover, MA 01843, phone 682-0049.

Local realtors join Homeview

Realty World Forest-Conant, 281 Main St., Wilmington and Re/Max Hearthstone Realty, 1215 Main St., Tewksbury, are now part of HomeView, a broker sponsored hi-tech home search service that is free to buyers. HomeView is the first major technology breakthrough in real estate since dial-up multiple listing services (MLS) were introduced 25 years ago.

As HomeView member brokers, they have their listings entered into HomeView's interactive digital picture database. At a HomeView Center, Needham, buyers preview hundreds of homes in minutes using a touch screen computer. The "fingertip tours" recreate the feel of a real visit - from first sight of the house to browsing through rooms and touring the grounds.

After buyers select homes that match their criteria, HomeView arranges appointments with the listing broker for on-site home visits.

For more information about this new high tech homesearch service, call Raymond Forest, Realty World Forest-Conant, (508) 658-5010 or Claire Mercer, Re/Max Hearthstone Realty, (508) 851-4300.

Athletic scholarships available

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes.

Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all-state athletes in order to qualify. Much of this money goes unused.

A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of factual information is available for student-athletes. It takes them step by step through the important process of getting an athletic scholarship and includes college and conference listings.

For information on how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship, send a #10 self-addressed, stamped envelope to the National Sports Foundation, 611A Willow Drive, PO Box 940, Oakhurst, NJ 07755.

Seated at the front desk of her new office, Donna invites you to call or drop by to say hello

"It's getting better every year!" In these times not many business people say those words, but that's what Donna Wayman says. With over 130 properties sold during the year, 1991 was her best year ever. 1990 was the best year ever. So was 1989. A trend is developing here. With 39 properties sold in the first quarter of 1992 Donna feels she is right on track for another "best year ever."

Donna is a Wilmington resident with many distinctions. She is a licensed builder! She is a successful business owner. A licensed broker. The first woman to join Wilmington Rotary Club. But the most telling distinction is the people Donna does business with. Repeat business and referrals are the majority of her clients. People who work with Donna respect her enough to recommend her to their friends and family!

It's truly a home grown success story. Donna started working at Casalot Real Estate even before she graduated from Wilmington High School. In 1985 she bought the company! She joined RE/MAX in May of 1990 and was inducted into the RE/MAX 100% Club in 1991.

RE/MAX Casalot also deals with a great deal of new construction. They have 5 developments under way in Wilmington and Billerica.

Recently Donna expanded her offices to 11 Middlesex Ave in Heritage Commons. She and the eight associates, office manager and secretary are excited about the prospects the move has made. Their large staff allows them to serve their customers better with longer office hours than many other offices. They are open 7 days a week. Monday thru Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Wilmington alumnus adjusts to college life

by Arlene Surprenant

Besides ushering in the holiday season, late November and December is traditionally the time when Wilmington alumni return to their hometown. One of those enjoying a recent visit home was Jodi Pellegrini of Harold Avenue. Jodi is presently a freshman studying engineering at Rensselear PolyTech in Troy, New York.

An honor student, Jodi graduated second in her class at Wilmington High School last June. She was vice-president of the National Honor Society, vice-president of SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk), a popular cheerleader, a peer leader, and a member of the Student Council. Jodi earned the Rensselear Award in her junior year: a $5,000 a year scholarship which guaranteed her admission to that prestigious school. She went on to cop several other scholarships and merit awards as well.

Like most frosh, Jodi has not found the transition from high school to college easy. She is still adjusting to campus life and the strenuous course of study she has chosen.

"I didn't expect I'd have a problem. I thought it would be tough but I didn't understand what tough meant," she says frankly.

Jodi's courses include chemistry of materials, calculus, engineering graphics, and CAD (computer and design). All students at RPI take three semesters of straight engineering courses before taking any electives in the humanities.

Most incoming frosh also learn early on to take advantage of the free tutoring service offered through the school's Learning Center. Jodi found herself over her head in a course on engineering analysis and promptly signed up for a tutor before deciding to drop the course. She will pick up the required subject after she is more adequately prepared. Jodi feels part of the problem was a lack of advanced courses in sciences like chemistry and physics at Wilmington High. She explains most of the students at RPI had already taken two years of chemistry, engineering and drafting courses, and an honor course in physics.

"I was completely overwhelmed. The course went so fast and half of the material I had never seen. I'd be doing four and five hours of work that was completely unproductive," she explains.

Though she originally had a different concentration in mind, Jodi now has decided to concentrate on a five year program in industrial engineering, a program which will allow her to go into a management position in an engineering company. Her "ultimate goal" is to focus on the environment.

"Engineering is a wide-open field; you have alot of options," she says.

Jodi Pellegrini

Another adjustment was the large, lecture-type classes and the grading system, where professors base a semester grade only on three tests and a final exam. There is no mark for class participation or homework or quizzes, as in high school. The student is responsible for keeping up with the work and being prepared for tests, says Jodi.

"You need to be motivated. If you're not going to do the work and try to keep up, you're just not going to make it," she says with a rueful smile.

The studying leaves little time for socializing in the dorm with roommate Cheryl Jollimore (from Billerica) and other friends or for extra-curricular activities. Jodi was recruited by her advisor-coach to join the cheerleading squad. She devotes about six hours a week to cheerleading at football, basketball, and hockey games, something that prevents her from making frequent weekend trips home. Reality hit hard when Jodi's cheerleading partner attempted suicide partway into the fall season.

"I felt so bad, like maybe I should have known what was going on," she says. Jodi and the entire squad went for crisis intervention.

Like others away from home, Jodi soon found her biggest adjustment was being on her own and missing her supportive family: dad Peter, mom Annette, and Pete, her sixteen year old brother. Jodi and her family do keep in touch via long phone conversations. In addition, "care packages" come on a regular basis. The last one, laughs Jodi, contained gloves, earmuffs, and cream of wheat to help cope with New York's frigid weather. These days, her fellow cheerleaders provide some needed support when things get a little rough.

Jodi's first trip home was over the long Thanksgiving weekend.

"I just came in and walked all around. They had a fire going and it was very cozy. I was so happy, plus my mother made my favorites — steaks and stuffed mushrooms," recalls Jodi with a smile.

She also met old friends at the traditional football clash with Tewksbury and was surprised at how much she had missed Wilmington.

"When you go away you miss alot. What is it now — three Dunkin' Donuts in town? Why not a MacDonald's?" she asks with a laugh.

Jodi is back at Rensselear, a place she loves for it's mid-size campus, close-knit environment, and concentration on the undergrads. Life is more balanced now and less of a struggle.

In summation, Jodi advises high schoolers to "learn as much as you can and try to take on some responsibilities now because it's a real big adjustment later on." She reminds fellow students, "you only get out of it (school) what you put in."

{ If You Think An Accident Does A Number On Your Car, Consider What It Can Do To Your Schedule. }

The bad news is, you're involved in a car accident. The good news is, it's not too serious. No one wants to find themselves in this situation, but Shirley Boone did recently. So she drove herself to Walk In/Urgent Care at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center in Wilmington. Knowing that all of the doctors at the Family Medical Center are members of the Winchester Hospital staff, Shirley knew she was getting high quality care. She also benefited from the fact that the Family Medical Center has added more physicians for primary care, and we've completely renovated our facility for improved patient service. And since lab and radiology capabilities are all on-site, Shirley didn't have to make another trip. Or take up any more time. Which just goes to show that when you know where to go, getting high quality care is no accident. Location: 500 Salem Street, Wilmington. Dedication Saturday for renovated steeple at Congregational Church

Now that the extensive renovation of the steeple has been completed, the Stewardship Committee of Wilmington's Congregational Church plans a dedication service at the church Saturday, Dec. 12 at 10 a.m.

Since this building was at one time the site of the Town Hall, members of the committee will be presenting a slate that was removed from the old steeple to the board of selectmen. Bob Wesinger has taken slates from the old steeple and silk screened a picture of the church on them, and has drilled holes with attached rawhide so that they can be hung on a wall. These pictured slates are available at a cost of $15 and are numbered along with a brief history of the church. There are only a limited number of these available, and they well be sold during the dedication. If you cannot make the dedication and would like to purchase a slate, you can call Bob at 508-658-6071.

Also at this time there will be a mini fair held at the church from 8 a.m. to noon, sponsored by the Missions Committee. All proceeds from this fair will go toward an elevator so that all handicapped people will have access to the many functions held at the church.

The committee is asking all friends,businesses, and church members to make donations to help cover the cost of the steeple renovations. Since the clock in the steeple belongs to the town, the committee approached the town manager to see if funds were available to refurbish the clock's faces. They were told that there were no funds available at this time, so the committee took a step out in faith and had the faces completely redone, hoping that local townspeople and businesses would respond and help cover the cost.

The total restoration cost was $31,000 and the Mid Mass. Renovation Co. did an excellent and thorough job making sure that all rotted and weakened wood was replaced. Photos will be available at this dedication showing the poor condition of the steeple and clock with photos of the original steeple that blew off many years ago.

Members of the committee will be available to answer any questions you may have about the church or the steeple so please feel free to stop by and visit.

WHS Students of the Month

Charlene Fox, of Adams Street, daughter of Sharon and Charles Fox, and Mark Woodbury, son of Jean and Hal Woodbury of Morgan Road, have been named Students of the Month for November at Wilmington High School.

Charlene Fox

Charlene is an active member of SADD, Peerleadership, Student Council, Yearbook and serves as president of the Medical Careers Club. She is also a member of the varsity tennis and volleyball teams, where she was captain.

She received many volleyball honors including the All-Star Award during her junior and senior years; MCP senior year, and the Merrimack Valley Sportsmanship Award in her senior year. She hopes to major in education in business at either Bentley, Babson, Bryant, or Northeastern.

Mark Woodbury

Mark is an active member of the marching band, jazz band and the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship (MYF). He is president and quartermaster of the band and has been active in raising money for charitable causes e.g. the walk for hunger and the MS 150 mile bike trip.

Mark has been on the varsity tennis team for four years, the track team for three years and is an avid downhill skier. He is preparing for a career in hotel and restaurant management. UNH, UMass, Amherst and Franklin Pierce are among the colleges he is considering.

Wilmington school news

Wildwood school news

Plans for the Wildwood school writing incentive program are progressing smoothly. The carpenters are placing final touches on our Wildwood Post Office Center. The program, "Wildwood Writes," will match students in different classrooms with each other as pen pals. Each classroom will be assigned zip codes. Upper grade students are busy brainstorming street names for each wing in the school. The post office is expected to be in full operation within a couple of weeks, with letters being delivered by students.

We hope that parents enjoyed their visits to the classrooms during National Education Week.

The gift wrap has all been received and delivered to parents.

If there were any errors with your order, please inform the school. This fundraiser was very successful thanks to all the parents who supported the project. A special thanks to Mrs. Jones for her efforts in collecting all the money and a thank you to Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Meixler for distributing the items to all of the classrooms.

The Election Day bake sale was enjoyed by many voters, students and parents. A special thank you to the many parents who baked items for our school and to those parents who volunteered their time to sell on Election Day.

Because of these endeavors, the PAC is able to provide enrichment programs for our students. During these economic times the fundraising efforts are even more crucial.

The fifth grade students have completed their Iowa tests of basic skills. All answer sheets have been forwarded to be scored and we expect these results after the first of the year.

Winter concert

On December 15, the students at the Wildwood School, under the direction of Michael Donovan,will perform their annual winter concert. There will be a performance at 9:30 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

We are asking parents with last names beginning with A-L to attend the morning performance and those with names beginning with M-Z to attend in the afternoon. However, if you cannot attend the performance assigned to you , feel free to attend the other.

Report cards will be sent home with the children in Grades 1-5 on Fri., Dec. 11. Kindergarten students will receive progress reports in January.

Sweatshirts are being sold by a committee of parents to defray the cost of the trip to Nature's Classroom for next year's fifth grade students. Sweatshirts are on display at the school and may be tried on. Prices are $12 for students and $13 for adults.

Over 500 people enjoyed the ice cream smorgasbord held last month. We hope everyone enjoyed their sundaes and the opportunity to socialize with Wildwood families. A special thank you to Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. DeMaggio for co-chairing this fund event. Also thank you to West Lynn Creamery for its donation of ice cream and whipped cream.

Students of the month

Grade one: Lisa Maretiniello, Travers Peterson.

Grade Two: Nicholas Butler, Danielle Hodgson, Danielle Doucette, Megan Grenier, Brian Aldrich, Dennis DiCenso, Christine Dowling.

Grade Three: Eric Meixler, Stefany Quinton.

Grade Four: Kelly Beaudin, Andrew Viscente.

Grade Five: Katie Chalmers, Michael Corcoran.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

MUST YOU DIE TO COLLECT?

QUESTION: Is it true that you don't have to die in order to collect money from your life insurance policy?

ANSWER: Almost 60% of life insurance payments go to policy holders while they live. That's a good reason for calling it "life insurance." That's because most life insurance is of the "permanent" kind. These policies build up a substantial cash value over the years upon which you can draw whenever the need arises, such as for college tuition or retirement.

The beauty of permanent (or whole life) insurance is that it offers, not only protection in time of death, but real usefulness in life as well.

YOU DON'T HAVE to die to collect on your insurance. Over half collect while alive.

Visited New York

Pamela Downs of West Street, Wilmington returned home last weekend following a four day visit to New York City during which she viewed Macey's Thanksgiving Day Parade. She was accompanied by sisters Lisa Ward and Sharon Mickle and nephew Gregory Mickle. The major reason for the sojourn to NYC was the parade in which Kelley Mickle, formerly of Wilmington took an interesting part.

Kelley, daughter of Bob and Sharon (Ward) Mickle, attended Brookside Nursery School, in Wilmington and is now an East Andover, N.H., teenager. She's a member of the One-wheelers, a unicycle group based in E. Andover, N.H. that took part in Macey's Turkey Day extravaganza.

The talented One-wheelers, were spotted, "doing their thing," and were invited to take part in the gala New York City event. The group enjoys a membership of 39 members between the ages of nine and 14 and is under the able direction of Percy Hill, also of N.H.

Kelley is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mickle of Concord Street, Wilmington and niece of Stephen and Diane Ward of Andover Street.

Senior Fair

Wilmington Senior Citizens will conduct their annual Christmas Fair Saturday, Dec. 12 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Buzzell Senior Center on School Street.

Included among the many and varied tables will be hand crafted items suitable for Christmas giving, children's toy table, food tables and townie shirts (also great gifts) will be available.

Food will be offered and anyone interested is invited to browse through the tables, or to donate usable items for sale. Public invited.

Women's Club

The Wilmington Women's Club will meet Thursday, Dec. 17 at the United Methodist Church, beginning at 11 a.m. with the sale of hand-painted ornaments. Members are asked to take their favorite ornaments or decorations for display.

Luncheon will be served by Andrea Hauser and her committee. Phyllis Garrett will give an invocation before the business meeting at which time the Girl of the Month will be introduced.

Members will present "The Jesse Tree," a Christmas classic which reflects the joy of the season. The meeting will close with a sing-along.

No registration is necessary, but those who want more information may call the Children's Department at 658-2967.

Christmas concert cancelled

The Christmas Concert scheduled for Sunday afternoon Dec. 13 at the Wilmington Council for the Arts Center has been canceled due to an unfortunate accident to one of the performers.

One morning last week Maybelle Bliss misjudged her footing on her back steps and tripped, breaking her left wrist. "Luckily," says May, she's right handed. Nonetheless, this prevents a piano performance as early as the December 13 date.

The council regrets the cancellation of the afternoon concert; it is eagerly anticipated by so many each year, but we wish Mrs. Bliss well and shall look forward to her spring concert with fellow artists, Aloha Jaynes and Carolyn Stanhope.

Annual Christmas Concert at St Williams Church

Sunday evening, December 13 at seven, the Interfaith Choir of Tewksbury will present its annual Christmas Concert at St. William's Church. The choir members are a representation of all of the churches in Tewksbury as well as several from surrounding communities.

They have been rehearsing at the Tewksbury Congregational Church for the past several months and are now ready to present a program of varied secular and sacred Christmas music entitled "Christmas News" for your listening pleasure. Included will be such selections as "Sing out the News," "O Holy Night," "The Holly and the Ivy," "Nuttin' for Christmas," "Go Tell it on the Mountain," "One God" (their theme song,) and many others. St. William's Junior Choir will also participate in the program as well as join with the full choir for a selection called "A Christmas Antiphonal." There will be selections performed by individual soloists including Arlene Wright and Bill Merrill.

There will also be several soloists featured with the choir including Elden Salter, Jack Sheehy and Jim Long. The choir will again be under the able direction of Norman DeMarias. Barbara Flynn will once more be featured as the accompaniest with James Sutton on the drums as well as the addition of Richard Costantino on the guitar.

The evening promises to be light, entertaining and enjoyable with a little something for both young and old. It is a family night, so take your family, friends and neighbors to enjoy the interfaith spirit. The program begins at 7:00 and is free to the public with refreshments to be served following the program.

Tree of Hopes and Dreams

During this holiday season, the Friends of Stone Zoo will sponsor a "Tree of Hopes and Dreams." Here's an opportunity for everyone to be a part of the future of the zoo. Each gift will be identified by an ornament to be hung from the tree in the gift shop throughout the holiday season. The tree will be a visible sign of support for the future of Stone Zoo and all gifts will be acknowledged.

Here's a chance to remember family and friends who have enjoyed Stone Zoo during its long history of more than 86 years. It's a way to recognize someone who has been helpful to you over the past year, as a special gift for someone on your list or a touching memory of a loved one.

Everyone who participates is invited to the official lighting ceremony at the zoo gift shop in Redstone Plaza, Stoneham. So be sure to join "Santa Bear" and take part in this festive event Sunday, Dec. 13 from 5 to 6 p.m. For details, drop by the gift shop Thursdays and Fridays from 6 to 9 p.m. or weekends from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 617-944-8389.

Senior citizen lunch program

The Senior Citizen Lunch Program is prepared in the Wilmington School Food Service kitchens. The meals on wheels are produced in the North Intermediate School and the seniors lunch, for those able to go in, is produced at WHS which is the lunch site for congregate lunch. We prepare a nutritious lunch every day at both sites and all Wilmington residents 60 years of age and older are welcome to participate. The donation is $1 for lunch.

If you are incapacitated and in need of meals on wheels, you may contact Mrs. Edith Cunningham at the Senior Center to request approval. She makes that determination. If you are able to go to the only to call the center at 657-7595 or 658-2258 the day before to reserve a meal for the next day. You can do it weekly and call to cancel a day if you are not going to go to the lunch. Lunch is served at 12:15 p.m. each day except holidays and school vacations. We would like to have you join us. Where can you get such a bargain for $1.00? We serve a nutritionally balanced meal each day. There is coffee and tea available before lunch, fruit, a main meal or choice of soup and sandwich or salad bar with milk and dessert. It's a great time to socialize as well.

We'd like to have you come, call the Senior Center to make your reservation.

Bryan Fallon, 34 of Hobson Avenue was arrested by Officer Dave Sugrue who investigated a domestic complaint. Fallon was charged with assault by means and threats. He was held in the lockup for the weekend and was scheduled to be arraigned in Woburn Court Monday.

Early Monday morning Officer David Axelrod arrested Richard Madison of Andover charging him with operating after suspension of his drivers license.

At 11:30 p.m. Monday Officers Hubby and Bossi arrested Charles Mallahan, 22 of Main Street, Tewksbury after a stop on Main Street. Mallahan was charged with operating after suspension of his drivers license.

Tuesday morning Officer Joe Harris arrested Jeffrey Plumb of Grove Avenue after a computer check revealed a warrant issued by Peabody District Court. Plumb was turned over to Peabody officers for his appearance in court.

"Grease" cast

Students at Shawsheen Tech are busy rehearsing for a presentation of "Grease," the musical about teens in the early '60's. Wilmington students in the production are Jen Fantigrosso (front), Patrick Carter, Michelle Ciaramaglia, and Scott Crowley. The play is scheduled for Feb. 5 and 6.

Try to remember

The month of December with all its festivities is a happy and enjoyable month for most. But for many elderly the holidays are very lonely and depressing. Especially those who have lost a spouse or their health has not been good and are now living alone. Children become wrapped up with all the pressures of gift shopping for their children; it becomes difficult for them to find the same amount of time they did with parents, before the holiday season arrived. Try to remember we were young and how hard it was for us to spread ourselves during the Christmas holiday to the needs of our children and the needs of our parents.

Things do not change. It is just we seem to forget as we age. At the Senior Center we have planned for the month of December. Let your children enjoy their shopping and Christmas planning. Make your plans to join all the seniors at the Senior Center. We have planned the month to keep you from becoming lonely and depressed.

Christmas dinner dance

Thursday, Dec. 10 the annual Christmas dinner dance will be held in the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall. A turkey pie dinner with all the trimmings will be served at 7 p.m. Music will be provided for dancing. You can take your time getting ready as you should already have your table number.

Christmas Fair Dec. 12

On Saturday Dec. 12 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. the Senior Fair will be held at the Senior Center. To see so many seniors involved in this fair is wonderful. So many of you worked at the center on projects, others at home on projects, sold, bought chance books that you all donated to. Others bought gifts for the children's table and gift tables. Many have signed up to work on tables the day of the fair selling and bagging articles; preparing and serving food, etc.

A little dab 'll do ya

If for some reason you did not sign up to help, all you have to do is go to the SeniorCenter on Saturday. You will be welcome even if you can spend only half an hour, it is a long day and those working on tables will want to shop around also. On top of that it is a lot of fun, you will really enjoy yourself meeting all the people.

Christmas party

On Monday, Dec. 21, from money earned at the fair we will be having a big Christmas party at the Senior Center with a buffet luncheon starting at noon. Throughout the day we will have music for dancing, singing and a lot of laughter and enjoyment until 4 p.m. Every Wilmington resident 60 years and over is invited to the party and it is free to all. Now there is no reason you should stay home and feel lonely and depressed, is there? Come and celebrate the holidays together with your peers at the Senior Center, you are sure to enjoy yourself.

One request; let us know

We ask of you to call or come to the Center to let us know if you you will be joining us at the Christmas party on December 21. We want to make sure we have plenty of food for all.

Deliver by Friday?

The chairman of the Fair Committee would appreciate it if you could take in all the articles you have for the fair before Friday. Also don't forget to make your favorite desert for the fair. Many goodies will be needed for the pastry table and for the luncheon. I can tell you this is shaping up to be a terrific fair so don't forget to bring all your friends; there are Christmas gifts galore.

Commissioners meet Dec. 15

The Elder Commissioners meeting will be held in the Senior Center Tuesday, Dec. 15 at 2:30 p.m. Please try to attend — this is your meeting. The commissioners can help you only if you are present to give your input into the direction you want them to go. Don't let a handful of seniors represent you, you have your ideas and others have theirs. The meeting is only about an hour. Only a little time out of the whole month.

Food items

We have about 40 cans of peanut butter and flour along with 18 cans of pork. If you know of a young person who could use these food articles or a senior citizen who has not received the commodities, go to the Buzzell Senior Center and we will be only too happy to give them to you.

WHS Hall of Fame

Third class of inductees to be honored Jan. 16

The Board of Directors of Wilmington High School Athletic Hall of Fame has announced the selection of the third class of inductees. There were 10 members selected for this prestigious award.

A special team award will be presented to the 1948 football team.

Hall of Fame inductees are recognized as outstanding individuals who have made a significant contribution in the field of athletics as a participant or coach at Wilmington High School.

To be eligible, a participant must have been graduated from Wilmington High school for a period of 10 years.

The induction dinner will be held on Saturday, January 16, 1993 at the Wilmington Sons of Italy Hall.

Tickets are $20 per person and can be purchased by calling Aldo Caira at 658-8284 or Paul Fleming at 694-6060.

Tewksbury Youth Hockey

Mite A's roll, 6-1

The Tewksbury Mite A Youth Hockey team team defeated host St. Alban's, Vermont twice during the recent Thanksgiving Weekend Tournament.

Tournament co-MVP Bobby Fitzmaurice's hat trick and good defense by Steve Davos, Adam Rooney and Carl Giannelli (one goal, one assist) led to a 6-1 win in game one. Other goals were scored by Christopher White and Craig Boyle.

Good teamwork led to two assists each by Sean Walsh, Richie Enos nd Tim Scalley and one apiece by Ryan Russell, Chris Brown, Billy Surran and Bobby Fitzmaurice.

Game two saw Tewksbury and a more determined St. Alban's team tied at 1-1 after two periods thanks to a goal by Craig Boyle.

In the third period a hattrick by co-MVP Tim Scalley and one goal by Richie Enos gave Tewksbury a 5-2 victory.

Fine passing by Timmy Stevens and Craig Boyle led to a pair of assists each.

Solid defense by Billy Surran, Matt Harriman, Adam Rooney and Carl Giannelli (all of whom contributed assists) helped goaltender Richie Chambers, who was especially sharp in his second tournament victory.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Squirt C's extend win streak

Wilmington's Squirt C's have extended their winning streak after defeating North Andover 5-2 Sunday morning at Brooks Academy.

Wilmington's offense put the numbers on the board again, as Erik Gustafson scored twice, once in the first period when Billy Hafner and Brian LeBlanc assisted on the play, then again in the second period on a nice passing play from John O'Neil.

Dan Tello and C.J. Holmes also scored in the second period unassisted.

Dan LeBlanc picked up a second assist when he sent Dan Tocio in for a third period goal, but it was Wilmington's defensive unit of Billy Hafner, Brian Considine, Matt Gillis and Robert Garrett that held North Andover to only two goals to close in for the win. The Squirt C's regular season record now stands at 3-0.

This week the C's host Haverhill at the Ristuccia Expo Center Sunday at 7:20 a.m.

Mite's tie Newburyport

Wilmington started the regular season Saturday, squaring off against Newburyport at the Brooks Academy Rink.

Newburyport struck first with a goal in the middle of the period. The locals answered with an unassisted goal by Brian Velardo with 6:27 remaining.

The opponents quickly regained the lead with two goals just 21 seconds apart with 5:26 left in the opening period.

Wilmington kept the pressure up and got two goals from Pat Cushing, with assists going to Mik Montalto and Derek Clayton, knotting the game at three apiece going into the middle period.

The Wildcats took their first lead of the game halfway through the second period when Brian Velardo broke in alone and put one past the goaltender.

Newburyport continued to press and they were able to tie the game with 1:14 on the clock.

With 11:07 left in the third period, Newburyport beat goaltender Jim McGonagle to take a 5-4 lead.

Wilmington came back a minute later when Brian Velardo scored the hattrick after a feed from Casey Duggan for the tie.

Ready for another solid season

The Tewksbury High School girls' varsity basketball team is ready for the start of of what should be another fine season under returning coach-of-the-year Doug Anderson.

Sports Notebook

by Rick Cooke

Solid work ethic means another super season for TMHS girls

One of the real class acts among Merrimack Valley Conference coaches is currently preparing what should be a surprising team for a real run at a Small School championship in MVC Girls' Basketball.

Doug Anderson and his Tewksbury High School basketball girls are trying to tell people it will be an uphill battle, but from this vantage point, much of the conference could be looking up at this team that is led by returning all-conference center Kristin Hodges and a pressure defense that is sparked by perenially solid defensive play in the backcourt.

Hodges is a three-time all star whose late-season injury a year ago probably cost the Redgals a shot at advancing further in the Eastern Mass Tournament.

Tewksbury still finished with a 13-5 overall record that included a tourney win over Saugus before Salem ended the TMHS' season in the third round of the tournament.

TMHS graduated 10 girls from last year's team, including all-star forward Amy Beauregard, who became the first TMHS varsity girls' player to ever finish with 1,000 points for a career at the school. Four of last years graduates are playing college basketball, with Beauregard set to transfer to UMass/Lowell, where she intends to tryout for the varsity at some point.

Anderson notes with much pride that all 10 grads are attending college, no small feat when you consider that too many high schools still put the athletic cart before the scholastic horse.

The Tewksbury varsity will feature eight seniors and eight juniors and possibly one freshman, according to Anderson. "We have 12 kids up from a junior varsity team that finished 11-6 last year," notes the TMHS coach. "We have an extremely experienced group of girls returning who have been waiting for their chance to play. We were very successful last year considering that Kristin missed the last seven games. We do plan to have a more balanced attack this year," predicted Anderson.

The TMHS starting five to open the season will have Hodges at center; Laurie McNaught and Elyce Botto at the guards; and Heather Sullivan and Tina Rideout at the forward positions.

Other returning Tewksbury veterans include Erin Sullivan, Amy Peterson, Michelle French, Jill Harris, Meredyth Scanlon, Karen Lenihan, Megan Landry, Amy Perotti, Laurie Whelan and Jill Klerowski.

Anderson expects the usual solid year from Methuen in the Small School race, with Dracut and Wilmington looking to solid also. Lawrence, says Anderson, has a new coach and a new attitude. Haverhill and Andover will be the top clubs in the Large School division, according to the TMHS coach.

It will be tough for this team to hide in the woods for too long given its' solid defensive work ethic. They will outhustle many teams at both ends of the court simply because their coach demands nothing less than complete effort. They aren't big, but they will be scrappy and a lot of fun to watch develop as the season motors along.

Nelson takes over in Tewksbury

Jeff Nelson takes over as the Tewksbury High School boys' varsity basketball coach, replacing Charlie Micol, who moved on to take the varsity basketball coaching job at his alma mater, the University of Chelmsford. That's Chelmsford High School, for all you small-timers from those farming areas that surround the great state of Chelmsford.

Putting all sarcasm aside, Nelson has his work cut out for him in teaching yet another system to a group of players who had worked and struggled under Micol for two seasons.

Nelson coached the junior varsity in Tewksbury many moons ago and also had stints as the head man in Methuen and as an assistant coach at Babson College. His college coaching background should be a big plus for this TMHS team.

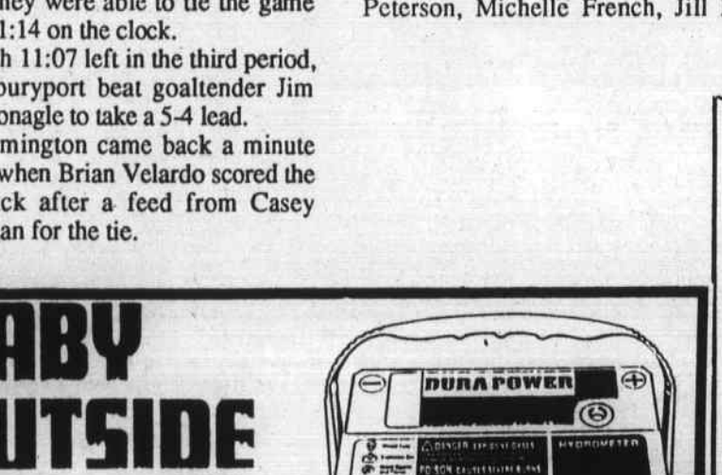

Nelson knows there many be a problem of overcoming a lack of coaching continuity with this program, but he says he's here to solve that potential problem. "I'm here to help this team develop and prepare it to win games," said Nelson at a workout early last week. "I plan on being here for a long time."

Little League

Legion honors local players

Summer baseball for the Little League age youngsters in Wilmington has existed in various forms over the last few years depending upon the volunteers involved.

This past year was no different, as five Wilmington teams were organized and entered into the Bay State Tournament of Champions.

Two 12 year old teams, one 11 year old team and two nine-10 year old teams competed against Eastern Mass. communities beginning at the conclusion of Wilmington's Little League season and continued well into August.

The five teams had varying degress of success in terms of wins and losses, but they were all highly successful in providing Wilmington younsgters with a positive experience.

The organizers wish to thank all the volunteers who helped make the 1992 Wilmington Summer Baseball Program a success, especially the Wilmington Little League, the American Legion, Bob Palmer and his crew who maintained and prepared the fields and Ken Meuse and his umpiring staff.

YMCA pool course

The Greater Lowell Family YMCA will be conducting a pool operator on location course on February 11 and 16 from 6 to 10:30 p.m.

Registration for this course will begin will begin January 2 and the cost is $40, including required textbook. Both classes must be attended for certification.

Successful completion of the course leads to lifetime certification. The P.O.O.L. course is intended for staff responsible for maintaining a swimming pool, and for supervisors who need to know chemistry; disinfection systems; water testing; and operational safety standards. The course is recognized in NY and NJ and is required for pool operators in those states.

Drug education Dec. 14-18

Bob Wiggins, Narconon drug education specialist, will be presenting "The Truth about Drugs" to grades one through five at Wilmington's Shawsheen Elementary School December 14; Wildwood Elementary School on the 16th and the Woburn Street School on the 18th.

Bob has supervised drug counseling at Narconon for 12 years and has been holding drug education presentations for the past nine years.

"We're giving kids, parents, teachers and law enforcement people the facts about drugs," explains Wiggins. "False information and scare tactics are very often used in drug presentations, and the true data about drugs gets lost. This only confuses the kids and parents about what to do."

Narconon, founded in 1966, is an international drug education and rehabilitation program. Narconon New England, over the past several years, has delivered its' "Truth about Drugs" presentation to over 200,000 students, parents and educators.

The objective of the education program is to prevent children from ever using drugs, and to provide alternatives to those who are using drugs.

The foundation of this comprehensive prevention/education program is the classroom presentations to public and parochial school children.

These students are given the true facts about drugs, facts they can relate to at their particular age level.

The emphasis on all presentations is on communication. No scare tactics are used. The tone is kept very light, and humor is used to hold attention and add impact to the true facts.

obituaries

Elsie I. Cross

Elsie I. Cross (Miltz), widow of George A. Cross, died in December 8, 1992 at Greenview Manor Nursing Home, Wakefield after a lengthy illness.

Born in Somerset, Nova Scotia, 90 years ago, Mrs. Cross was a long time resident of Main Street, Wilmington. She worked as a stitcher in the shoe industry for many years.

She was the mother of Helen Tillotson of Wilmington; grandmother of four and great-grandmother of eight.

She also leaves two sisters, Bertha Ross and Evelyn Cogswell both of Waterville, Nova Scotia; a niece Mary Strong of Reading and two nephews, Gerald D'Entremont of Billerica and Arthur D'Entremont of Connecticut.

Funeral services will be held at the Nichols Funeral Home, 197 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington Thursday at 11 a.m. preceded by visiting hours from 10 to 11. Burial will follow in Wildwood Cemetery with services conducted by the Rev. Dr. Michael Stotts of the Wilmington United Methodist Church.

James L. Montague

James L. Montague, 84, a longtime resident of South Main Street, Wilmington, died Friday, December 4, 1992 at Saints Memorial Medical Center, St. John's Campus, Lowell. He was the widower of Mabel E. (Maxim) Montague, formerly of Wakefield.

Born in Boston Sept. 19, 1908, he was the son of the late James and Mildred (Sherman) Montague and lived in Woburn prior to moving to Wilmington 58 years ago.

Gentle, caring, soft-spoken Jimmy could be seen for most of those 58 summers, laboring in his beloved garden and dispersing much of his produce among friends and neighbors.

He was an active member of the North Congregational Church in Woburn, and prior to retirement was employed in several tanneries.

Mr. Montague is survived by his daughter and son-in-law, Margaret and John Langenfeld of Pelham, N.H. and seven grandchildren, John Jr. and Michael Langenfeld, both of Lowell and James, Marc, Jeffrey, Michelle and Jaquelyn Langenfeld, all of Pelham.

Funeral services under the direction of the Graham Funeral Home of Woburn were held at the North Congregational Church Tuesday.

Frank Holland

Frank Holland, a resident of Wilmington for more than 50 years died at his residence, Friday, Dec. 4, 1992.

Born in Wallingford, Conn., 72 years ago, he served as an electrician's mate with the SeaBees in the Asiatic-Pacific Theatre of Operations during World War II and until retirement was employed as a truck driver for Wakefield Redi-Mix.

Mr. Holland was the widower of Margaret (Cannon) Holland and is survived by his sister Elsie Hopper, also of Wilmington.

Funeral services were held at the Nichols Funeral Home Monday, Dec. 7, with the Rev. Ron Grimley of the Wilmington First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

News from the Mirror December 11, 1942

The following material was published in the Dec. 11, 1942 edition of the Wilmington Mirror.

All young men who have reached or will reach their 18th birthday between the dates of July 1 and September 31 must register for the draft. It is possible to register at the Selective Service Board in Billerica.

Registration hour; Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon; 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Wilmington boys may register with William Cavanaugh, Town Clerk, Main Street, Wilmington, by birthday dates.

Dec. 11 to Dec. 17: boys born in July and August 1924.

December 13 to Dec. 24: boys born in September and October 1924.

December 26 to December 31: Boys born in November and December 1924.

Silver Lake residents are planning a protest meeting Sunday, Dec. 13 at Silver Lake Betterment Hall, at 8:30 p.m. The Boston & Maine Railroad has scheduled a closure of the Silver Lake Railroad Station. Many commuters will be affected.

State Representative Herman Peterson of Woburn and State Senator Arthur W. Coolidge will be at the meeting.

A Christmas party, for children is planned in the Silver Lake Betterment Hall Sunday afternoon December 20. Mrs. George Boylen will be in charge.

A turkey party is planned for December 18 with Eddie Forrest in charge. The proceeds will be used for gifts for men in the armed forces.

Calvin Drew of West Street has signed up with the United States Marines.

Names have been announced of young men drawn for active duty by the Selective Service Bureau. Drawn: Warren Arthur Stavely, Alfred Mark Lynch, John Batcheller, Joseph Furtado, Consta Cuoco, Arthur F. Stanton, Thomas John Galka, and Stanley Eugene Witham.

Joseph Galka, a member of the Wilmington Police Department, has reported to the United States Navy as a Petty Officer.

The East Wilmington Improvement Association has given the use of their hall to W.H. Andrews for the 4-H Woodworking Club, and to Madeline Coffin, for the 4-H Cooking Class.

Many attended the regular meeting of the Whitefield Rebekah Lodge on Monday night. The proceeds are to be used for the children's Christmas party.

Robert L. Munroe, 18 of King Street has completed his basic training in the U.S. Naval Training Station, Newport, Rhode Island. A graduate of Wilmington High School, he has a brother in the Army.

The Wilmington Hebrew Community Center conducted a breakfast meeting Sunday in North Wilmington. President Harry Finer was in charge.

Three hundred dollars was appropriated in a special town meeting last week to erect an honor roll for all persons in Wilmington in the armed services. Five persons were named to the committee: Commander Paul Dayton, American Legion; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Louis Kennedy; Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley, American Legion Auxiliary; and Louis T. McMahon and Caleb S. Harriman.

The Town Meeting voted to buy the Roman Estate, approximately 18 1/2 acres, for the erection of a new high school, with adjacent playing fields.

A report on the over crowded conditions of the High School was read by Herbert C. Barrows in place of Chairman August MacLeod, who was not present. It was realized that nothing could be done until the end of the war. It was voted that the committee continue to exist: August C. MacLeod, chairman; Herbert C. Barrows, William Curtin, Charles H. Black and Edwin C. Twomey.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Arthur S. Ford to Provident Financial Services Inc. agent for Connecticut National Mortgage Co., dated June 20, 1988 and recorded with the Middlesex County, Northern District, Registry of Deeds at Book 4553, Page 148, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at 11:00 A.M. on the 30th day of December, 1992 upon the mortgaged premises, which premises are commonly known as and numbered 365 B Chandler Street, Tewksbury, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage as follows:

The Condominium Unit numbered 365 B (The Unit) in the Chandler Condominium (The Condominium) consisting of property having a post office address of 365 B Chandler Street, Tewksbury, Ma. 01876 and which was created pursuant to and in accordance with Chapter 183A of the Massachusetts General Laws by a Master Deed dated April 25, 1988 and recorded in the Middlesex North County Registry of Deeds (The Registry) in Book: 4484, Page: 126, as amended by instruments of record.

The Unit is more particularly described in (1) the said Master Deed (2) such site and floor plans as have been recorded or filed therewith (3) the Unit Deed thereof and (4) copies of portions of such site and floor plans filed with the first Unit Deed.

The Unit is conveyed together with a 19 percent undivided interest in the common areas and facilities as defined and described in the aforementioned Master Deed. The Unit and said undivided interests are together hereinafter referred to as the Mortgaged Premises.

The Mortgaged Premises are subject to and with the benefit of (1) the provisions of Chapter 183A of the Massachusetts General Laws (2) the provisions and matters set forth and/or referenced to in the Master Deed (3) the provisions of the Chandler Condominium Trust and its By-Laws recorded with said Master Deed and such Rules and Regulations as may be promulgated thereunder and (4) the provisions set forth and referred to in the Unit Deed to the Mortgagor recorded in the Middlesex, North County Registry of Deeds, all as may from time to time be amended by instruments of record.

Taking by the Middlesex County Commissioners for the relocation of Chandler Street, dated Feb. 13, 1934, recorded at Book 841, Page 56.

Taking by and easement to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts dated July 20, 1934, at Book 847, Page 568, as confirmed by Deed to said Commonwealth dated April 27, 1935, at Book 863, Page 344.

For Mortgagor's title, see deed from John H. Carroll, Trustee of Chandler & Main Nominee Trust u/d/t dated January 7, 1988 and recorded with said Deeds in Book 4376, Page 13 to Mortgagor, which deed is dated June 20, 1992 and recorded with said Deeds at Book 4553, Page 244.

TERMS OF SALE: Said real estate will be sold to the highest bidder who will be required to deposit TWO THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($2,500.00) by certified check or bank cashier's check at the time and place of sale and the balance shall be paid by certified check or bank cashier's check and the deed shall be delivered thirty (30) days after the date of sale at the offices of Widett, Slater & Goldman, P.C., 60 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Said premises will be sold subject to, and with the benefit of, all restrictions; easements; improvements; covenants; building, zoning and environmental laws and ordinances; outstanding tax titles; municipal or other public taxes; assessments; rights of tenants and parties-in-possession; liens or claims in the nature of liens; any existing encumbrances of record having priority over the mortgage being foreclosed; the Master Deed of Chandler Condominium, dated April 25, 1988, recorded with said Deeds at Book 4484, Page 126, as amended of record; the Declaration of Trust of the Chandler Condominium Trust dated April 25, 1988, recorded with said Deeds at Book 4484, Page 145, as amended of record; and, the provisions of Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 183A, all to the extent in force and applicable. The highest bidder shall be required to sign a Memorandum of Foreclosure Sale containing the above terms at the auction sale.

In the event that the highest bidder shall default in purchasing the premises, the undersigned reserves the right, at its election, to sell the premises by foreclosure deed to the second highest bidder provided that (i) said second highest bidder shall deposit with the undersigned the amount of the required deposit and shall execute a Memorandum of Foreclosure Sale within five (5) business days after written notice to the second highest bidder of the default of the previous highest bidder (which notice shall be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested), and (ii) title shall be conveyed to the second highest bidder thirty (30) days after the execution of the Memorandum of Foreclosure Sale, as provided herein.

The undersigned reserves the right to postpone the sale to a later date by public proclamation at the time and date appointed for the sale and to further postpone any adjourned sale date by public proclamation at the time and date appointed for the adjourned sale date. Other terms to be announced at the time and place of the sale.

Arbitrator reduces trash fee increase

An arbitration panel ruled recently that Massachusetts Refusetech Inc. (MRI), operator of the North Andover waste-to energy facility, deserved less than a quarter of the estimated $75 million in higher revenues it sought from the member communities of the North East Solid Waste Committee (NESWC).

The panel denied MRI's claim that NESWC's trash was causing the facility's operating costs to rise, but agreed that MRI was entitled to additional revenue because the price of the energy MRI sells such lower than economists had projected it would be when the communities signed their contracts with MRI in 1981. MRI had argued that it was losing money in operating the plant because of the unexpected decline in energy prices.

NESWC has not yet calculated the impact the panel's decision will have on current tipping fees. "The panel awarded approximately $6 million plus interest to MRI for the decline in energy revenues from 1985 to the present," said Robert Moroney, NESWC's acting executive director. The advisory board will be meeting Friday, Dec. 4, to discuss the ramifications of the decision.

At current energy prices, MRI will obtain an estimated $12 million more in tipping fees over the remaining 13 years of the communities' contracts. If the price of energy increases and comes closer to the economists' projections made in 1981, the towns will have less of an energy revenue shortfall to make up to MRI. Also, NESWC is currently working out an agreement to refinance the original bonds that paid for the facility's construction, Moroney said and the interest savings to the towns in the remaining years of the contract may fully offset the increase due to the panel's decision.

The panel rejected MRI's second claim that the trash delivered by the NESWC communities was burning hotter than estimated and causing increased operating costs. "Had it prevailed, this claim would have caused a much more dramatic increase in the tipping fees," Moroney said. NESWC was represented in the arbitration by the law firm of Palmer and Dodge in Boston.

MRI had alleged that "hotter" trash causes the facility to shut down more often for cleaning, increases wear and tear on the boilers and reduces the amount of trash the facility can burn, all of which would cause lower revenue for MRI. The panel found that the waste stream at the North Andover plant does burn hotter than projected, but determined that MRI did not prove that the NESWC communities were responsible for this increase. The facility receives trash from sources other than the NESWC communities and MRI had not separately tested the NESWC trash.

NESWC is a consortium of 23 communities, including Wilmington and Tewksbury, each of whom entered 20-year contracts to deliver their trash to the North Andover facility.

For further information call Robert Moroney at (508) 526-1242.

Testifies at hearing

Walter Kowalchik (left) testified at the hearing to challenge the recall petition against Shirley Callan on Monday night in Wilmington. He told the hearing that he had been suspicious of the person who approached him at the Wildwood School. The person evaded his questions, and Kowalchik refused to sign the petition. At right is Atty. David Klebanoff, representing Mrs. Callan.

Nobel prize winner Dr. Rosalyn S. Yalow spoke with Tewksbury Memorial High School (TMHS) students Tessa Ward, Leah Finnegan, Gretchen Hummrich, Diana Kondoleon, and Kristin Powers via telephone November 24, 1992. The other students from Mrs. Kathleen Mofield's science class watched the program at TMHS library via satellite broadcasting.

Dr. Yalow discovered radioimmunoassay for the measurement of pharmacologic and biologic substances - including drugs, hormones, viruses, vitamins and enzymes. She won the Nobel Prize in Physiology of Medicine in 1977. Dr. Yalow was also the first woman, and first nuclear physicist to win an Albert Lasker Basic Medical Research award. The students were able to ask her questions about her life and work.

Radioimmunoassay (RIA) is considered one of the most improtant advances in 20 years in basic research, which has been directly applied to clinical medicine. It is used in over 4000 laboratories in this country alone, and in thousands abroad, for identifying and measuring the concentration of hundreds of substances. These are both pharmacologic, such as drugs; and biologic, including among others, hormones, viruses, vitamins, and enzymes contained in blood, tissue extracts, other biologic fluids of the human body; and in animal, vegetable, and plant life. Dr. Yalow made her explanations understandable for high school students. Last spring and this fall other high school students were able to ask questions of Dr. Dudley Herschbach who also received the Nobel Prize in 1986 for chemical interactions of individual molecules.

The Nobel Prize Winners is a series sponsored by MCET. MCET programming is made possible by a federal grant written by William DeGregorio, principal of TMHS and administered by Gertrude M. Carey librarian at the high school.

RMLD offers unique learning tool

In the interest of encouraging and informing high school students in energy related and environmental career opportunities, the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) has offered a unique learning opportunity to its service-area students.

The RMLD's decision to foster career development education, has led to the utility's sponsorship of this program. The cost to the RMLD is $2000 to supply 30 individual "kits" of technological information. Materials are prepared by and distributed through the 1992-1993 Edison Electric Institute High School Grant Program. Although this program was offered to all high schools in the RMLD service territory, William Deven of North Reading High School was the first to accept.

Participating students will learn the latest and most up to date information about technological career opportunities through the use of a comprehensive technological "kit" that includes material on: Energy and Technology Updated, Environment Sourcebook, A Global Agenda, Discussion Guide, a wall poster and material that offers an educational look "Into the Future!." Updated technical and informational materials will be received by the students on a "timetable" basis to fit into the continuing curriculum.

Suzanne Cushing weds James Rooney

Suzanne Spiris Cushing and James John Rooney were married October 16, at the Danversport Yacht Club, Danvers.

The new Mrs. Rooney is the daughter of Mrs. Cecily Spiris of Wilmington and the late Mitchell J. Spiris. She is presently an AIDS educator and has done extensive work with the community and school children in the Town of Wilmington.

Mr. Rooney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rooney of Wilmington. He is a sergeant on the Wilmington Police Department.

Miss Kelly Cushing, daughter of the bride was her mother's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the daughters of the groom, Miss Colleen Rooney, Miss Shannon Rooney and Miss Kathleen Rooney.

Mickey Rooney served as best man for his brother while ushering duties were in charge of Richard McLaughlin, Artie Hall and Lawrence Cushing, III.

Mr. and Mrs. Rooney will be taking a delayed honeymoon trip to Aruba this winter.

Acme Printing Company

Family and Innovation

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Family and innovation are the key words that seem to have marked the success of the Acme Printing Company, Inc., as they have increased their size from a small print shop in Everett to their state-of-the-art facility in Wilmington.

A tour of the Wilmington facility shows that the company has not only grown in technological advancement but in being a small family-run business that knows how to take care of their customers.

When some of your customers are the biggest names in the travel, advertising and manufacturing industries, taking care of them and making them feel like family is very important.

Acme's vice president of marketing, John McQueen, Jr., notes that the company now specializes in printing annual reports and corporate image pieces for Fortune 500 companies such as Reebok and Mobil Oil, car companies such as Lexus and advertising firms such as Arnold, Fortuna, Lane.

The reason for the family orientation of the business is the list of officers: Edward Canzano (co-founder) chairman emeritus; Francis W. Canzano, Sr. (co-founder), vice president; Francis W. Canzano, president; Robert A. Canzano (brother), vice president, sales; George Farraher (brother-in-law), treasurer and plant manager; Ed Canzano II, vice-president purchasing; and, Cathy Kelly (sister), sales and administration.

All of the Canzanos worked at the plant as children, during the summers and on weekends. Thus, they know the conditions their employees work under and what it takes to get a job done.

Francis, Sr., comes into work for a full schedule everyday. Although he may not wear a suit and tie, his sons confirm that he still knows what is going on and without the aid of a computer can follow the path of an order through the many phases of the company.

Francis, Jr. said in an interview that the Canzanos are not the only family in the business.

"What speaks well of Acme is that you have a father who brings in a son or daughter, or people that bring their brothers and sisters," he said. "It must mean we're doing something right."

Francis thinks about that when he makes decisions affecting the business. "I'm responsible for 1,200 people (thought of as family). You can't play games."

The senior Edward and Francis started the company with their father in 1934 as a small print shop in Everett. That shop was located at the intersection of Spring Street and the Revere Beach Parkway.

One of the first innovations they made was to add a motor to a small hand press which the company still owns. As the business grew they family decided to move to a building across the Revere

THIS PRINTING PRESS is the Acme Printing Company's daily reminder of its humble beginnings. It is the original press that started the company and stands in the lobby of the 180,000 square foot facility in Wilmington. Pictured from left are: company co-founder and vice president, Francis W. Canzano, Sr.; Francis W. Canzano, Jr., president; George Farraher, treasurer and plant manager; Cathy Kelly (Canzano) sales and administration. (Don Young photo)

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

READING - World-renowned economist, teacher and author John Kenneth Galbraith will speak on "the community" at Reading Memorial High School at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, December 13th, thanks to the Friends of the Reading Public Library.

A former presidential advisor and Ambassador to India, Galbraith is the author of "The Affluent Society," "The New Industrial State," and "Economics and Public Purpose."

"The Culture of Contentment" is his latest - and current - book.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, and are $5 each, $3 for students and senior citizens.

MELROSE - Any day now, Melrose will know the fate of City Planner Jeff Luxenberg's $799,000 grant application to the Executive Office of Community Development.

The grant covers such areas as the senior center at the Franklin School, housing rehabilitation, youth programs, and handicap access improvements such as the construction of a ramp to the middle school.

BURLINGTON - Under the supervision of Postmaster Richard Sweeney, massive renovations now taking place at the Burlington Post Office will make it the third area post office to become a "Store of the Future."

Window and box services are now at the rear of the facility; the lobby will be enlarged and completely transformed to accommodate retail displays and vending machines; the main lobby area will double in size; and the box area will grow.

Although window service will continue, customers will be able to browse through a retail section, choosing the stamps and services they desire.

For a preview of the new Burlington post office, check out Woburn's Washington St. facility just off 128 on the left past Bradlees, toward Reading.

MALDEN - Lowell Blitt's choice of Malden Square as the location of his fourth L.B. Pennyworth's store is not that much of a surprise to Malden residents who remember Blitt's father Irving, who operated a men's and boy's clothing concession for years in Malden's Sparks Department Store and founded Pennyworth's in the early 1970s.

L.B. Pennyworth's specializes in name-brand men's and boy's casual clothing, sportswear, athletic footwear, and personal service. Malden city officials welcome the new business, hailing it as a "catalyst for the revitalization" of the square.

READING (NOT) - North Andover Police Chief Richard Stanley, arrested in Reading for drunk driving on July 23rd, has decided not to go through with his appeal trial and to plead "nolo," according to Reading Police Lt. Bob Silva in the Reading edition of the Daily Times Chronicle.

Nolo means Stanley "does not plead guilty but does not contest" the charges. He was found guilty of the drunk driving charge in a September trial in Woburn District Court and originally appealed that verdict, an appeal which would have seen the case go before a jury in Lowell.

The Woburn District Court judge imposed the following sentence on Stanley: loss of license for 45 days, one year probation and participation in a drunk-driving program.

A later motion by a North Andover Selectman to fire Stanley received no support.

SENIOR CENTER - The Wilmington Senior Christmas Fair will take place this Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at 15 School St. in Wilmington.

Everyone is invited to share in the "unusual and unique" creation by Wilmington's talented senior artists. Fair goodies will feature arts and crafts, ceramics, woodworking, knitted goods, dolls, and stuffed animals.

There will be a special children's shopping table, and food will be available.

25,000 volumes in Austin Prep library

Austin Preparatory School in Reading is finding the 1992-1993 school year to be one filled with milestones in the history of the independent Catholic school. Not only is this the 30th year of the school's operation and its first as a co-educational institution, but the school has also recently added the 25,000th volume to its Library's book collection.

Austin Prep's Library facility consists of two adjacent branches: the Fr. Arthur F. Smith Library Media Center and the Reference and Research Center. The Media Center is named in honor of one of the school's founding faculty members and first Academic Dean, who retired from teaching in 1987. Father Smith is now serving as Provincial Archivist for the Augustinian Friars in Villanova, PA. The Reference Room was opened in the Fall of 1987, and its construction was funded in part by a grant from the Hayden Foundation.

According to George M. Miller, Library Director at Austin Prep since 1969, the original book collection consisted largely of donations from area Augustinians and early benefactors of the school. He attributes its steady growth over the years to two principal factors: support from one of the school's parent groups, The Friends of Austin, and a strong commitment to the Library from the school's Board of Trustees. "Even in years of fiscal austerity and tight budgets," Mr. Miller notes, "the Board of Trustees has always treated Library funding as a top priority.

In addition to its 25,000-volume collection, Austin Prep's Library also includes extensive holdings in magazines and newspapers and other print materials, as well as an audio-visual collection of more than 9,000 items. The Commission on Independent Schools of the New England Association of Schools & Colleges, Inc., in its 1991 report at the time of Austin's ten-year reaccreditation, noted that "the Library is truly the 'jewel in the crown'" of the school's academic resources.

'Adoption Works For Everyone' Informative new free brochure

The National Adoption Center says that tens of thousands of children in America are waiting to be adopted. Dave Thomas, spokesman for the President's initiative "Adoption Works...For Everyone," believes there are an equal number of adults willing to consider giving these children a loving home, but don't know what to do or where to start.

A long-time adoption advocate, Thomas asked adoption experts from across the country to identify the most frequently asked questions about adoption, and to provide informative answers in a new free brochure, "Adoption Works...For Everyone: A Beginner's Guide to Adoption." The guide was created as Dave's way of making a meaningful contribution to the cause of adoption using the profits from sales of the hardcover edition of his autobiography, Dave's Way.

"With help from many sources, we identified the need for a beginner's guide describing how the process works and how to get interested people ready for the next step," said Thomas. "I was adopted as a child because someone cared enough to give me a home and love. Every child today deserves the same."

The 14-page guide provides an overview of adoption in clear, concise language. It is being made available by the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption to anyone who is considering adopting a child, or who is interested in knowing more about adoption. This free guide is available by writing: The Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption, P.O. Box 7164, Dublin, OH 43017.

Acme Printing Company

From s-1

Beach Parkway from Everett Stadium.

After a few years, the business outgrew the space there and they moved to Harvard Street in Medford.

Farraher, who has been with the company for 33-years, recalled that the Revere Beach Parkway building had about 20,000 square feet.

He said, "We bought the building in Medford, which had 35,000 square feet."

According to Farraher, the Canzano family soon added another 50,000 square feet to the building and in 1970 an additional 50,000 square feet was built.

According to Francis, the move to Wilmington was in response to complaints from neighbors in Medford. The result of the move was a 180,000 square foot facility, located on 25 wooded acres of land just off Route I-93.

"When we got into web offset printing, we outgrew the neighborhood," he said.

The ell shape of the building became unwieldy for an efficient printing operation and more space was needed.

The reason for the growth is that the company had started to become well known for its color printing.

Farraher notes, "In Everett, we used to do a lot of business forms. In Medford we started to do a lot of multi-colored work."

The company got out of printing business forms in 1978.

"We used to do a lot of work for Standard Duplicating and the work was done on copy paper with offset methods," Farraher said. "Now we use only high gloss paper and foreign sheets."

According to Farraher, the paper used now comes from Germany and other countries.

Each generation has been responsible for a little bit of change in the company.

The senior Canzanos were able to direct the course of the company after they started it with their father.

Farraher recalls that Edward, Sr., was famous for getting the newest in equipment.

However, he also notes that even in those days the company realized that "all the equipment in the world is only as good as the craftspeople that use it."

That is still a by word in the Acme operations today.

McQueen noted during a tour of the facility that with all the computer aided equipment, people stop to look at the product along the way with a human eye and make corrections.

In 1964, Francis, Jr., had graduated from Rensselaer Institute of Technology and after finishing a year in the Coast Guard returned to the company.

"We were still doing mostly black and white printing at the time," he recalled.

According to Francis, as late as the 1950's the company was still using a hand press for certain jobs but the jobs were getting bigger and the growth started.

"When I came back," Francis said, "I had a thing about color and started pursuing color work."

As part of that pursuit, Francis became involved with Dr. Edwin Land and his growing Polaroid Corporation.

As the demands from Polaroid got larger they would keep pushing Acme to the limits. Because of past frugal business decisions, the people at Acme all note that the company was able to meet the demands and grow along with Polaroid.

"Fortunately we accepted the challenges," Francis said. "That put us on the map to the point where we became the premiere color printer. That is where we are today."

That is a position that Francis intends to have the company stay in as he prepares the next generation of Canzanos to take over.

Looking toward the future, the company has already installed the latest in computer aided printing devices.

From the time the clients enter the building they will find that accommodations have been made for them to spend the day and watch the print job being completed.

These accommodations include client rooms complete with computers, fax machines and telephones so that the regular office work can be completed while the print job is being monitored.

To monitor that print job, the client might want to take advantage of Acme's "first in the world" Hell Chromalight Color previewing monitor or the Scitex Scanners and Scitex Response Systems.

To those unfamiliar with the computers, the Scitex machines might seem like wizardry. They can take a picture and make changes that range from subtle highlighting to completely transposing new looks onto the image.

The printing equipment is computer operated to match the settings inputted by skilled craftspeople and keep them straight throughout the process.

According to Francis, the wave of the future of printing will be computer aided partnerships between the major world wide printing plants.

The same job that will be done in Wilmington could be computer modemed to a similar plant in Germany for distribution in that country as well.

Francis notes that flexibility is the key word in the success of the operation.

Some of that flexibility has been shown in the company's forethought to start using many women in what was once a male dominated industry.

As Francis notes, the person is matched to the job. For the color work that is done today, he has found that a female eye may sometimes be a little more sensitive to the subtle changes.

Francis calls Acme a large business in today's measure, but added that in reality it is a small business and still growing.

A HOLIDAY CLOTHING DRIVE to benefit the Salvation Army Clothing Fund will be held at the Reading Texaco Food Mart located at 87 Walker's Brook Drive, exit 39 off Route 128 on Saturday 12 and 19 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Bring unwanted, clean and usable clothing either day. The Salvation Army van, shown above, will be on hand to accept donations.

Surviving the holiday with kids

Holidays can bring much stress to parents. The Parental Stress Line, a 24-hour, state-wide counseling service for parents in crisis (1-800-632-8188) offers the following tips for coping with Holiday Stress:

1. Set a budget in advance and feel comfortable sticking to it. Encourage children to keep expectations within budget.

2. Cut down on the nightmare of holiday shopping with small children by trading off baby-sitting with a neighbor or friend.

3. Use mail order catalogues from museums and commercial houses to shop at home.

4. Postpone weaning a toddler from his or her crib, bottle, pacifier or diaper until after the holidays are over.

5. Don't set impossible standards - doing too much adds stress.

6. Decide what is most important to you and your family and go with that. Be honest with your extended family; it might be better not to visit this year.

7. If you are feeling overwhelmed or stressed, call the Parental Stress Line at 1-800-632-8188.

SKI CLINICS AT REI IN READING

On Thursday, December 10, join guidebook author Tom Lepisto for an exciting look at cross-country skiing in the San Juan Mountains, the wildest range in the Colorado Rockies. Mesa Verde National Park, the Colorado Trail, the San Juan Hut System, spring telemarking 13,000-foot peaks, and apres-ski bathing in hot springs make this area a skier's paradise.

On Saturday, December 12, a variety of "extreme" ski films from around the world will be presented. The films will be running every hour between 12 noon and 5 p.m. The cost for the day will be $3 for non-members and $2 for members. One ticket will allow the viewing of each film in its entirety. Tickets will be available at Customer Service prior to and during the day of the films. The ticket will also allow a $5 discount off an REI performance stone grind for skis from REI's ski shop if skis are brought in that day. (All shop work must be prescheduled.)

Evening clinics begin at 7 p.m. and are free and open to the public. They are held at REI, 279 Salem St. (exit 40 off Rte. 128), Reading, (617) 944-5103.

QUITTERS IN MOTION AT WINCHESTER

Once they have given up smoking, ex-smokers often need extra support and encouragement to adjust to a new way of life. many people find it hard to be around family and friends who are smokers, others look for advice from someone who has successfully quit.

"Quitters in Motion," offered by Winchester Hospital, is an ongoing support group for those who have quit or are trying to quit smoking. This group may be used in conjunction with the nicotine patch as a patch advantage program.

The group will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 on Wednesday evenings at the Winchester Hospital Health Promotion Center, and costs $7 at the door. For more information please call (617) 932-8200.

MASS RELEAF TREE PLANTING GRANT

The Massachusetts Executive Office of Environmental Affairs announced today that it is now accepting applications for tree planting grants through its MASS ReLeaf program. As a new initiative this year, two types of grants will be offered.

The two types of matching grants that will be available include: 1) small business administration grants to municipalities, and 2) traditional MASS ReLeaf grants to community groups.

MASS ReLeaf has announced that $370,000, from a partnership formed with the U.S. Small Business Administration, will be available to cities and towns through their Tree Wardens for the purchasing of urban shade trees and the hiring of local small businesses to plant them. The municipality will be required to maintain the trees for three full years.

An additional $30,000 will be available, thanks to generous contributions to MASS ReLeaf from several Massachusetts businesses including Bull Information Systems, Inc. and City Gardens, Inc., to local community groups for the purchasing of urban shade trees. The local groups may apply for up to $2,000, and will be required to plant and maintain them for three years.

"The decision to offer grants to community groups was made with the help of the Massachusetts Urban Forestry Council in an effort to encourage volunteerism and citizen tree planting and care," said Jennifer Rooks, MASS ReLeaf coordinator.

Applications can be obtained from the MASS ReLeaf office at 100 Cambridge Street, 20th Floor, Boston, MA 02202 or by calling (617) 727-9800, Ext. 273. The due date for the application is Friday, February 9, and the awards will be announced in early September in time for fall tree plantings to occur.

CHATTERBOX CLUB CHRISTMAS PARTY

The "Chatterbox Club" Christmas party will be held on Saturday, December 12, at 12 noon at Verinique Ballroom, Longwood Towers in Brookline.

For information or reservations call Mary Mocogni, (617) 395-1404 or Eugenia Frassica, (617) 489-0127.

A LIGHTER LOOK AT MENOPAUSE

The physical and emotional changes that a woman faces during mid-life changes can, at times, become quite overwhelming.

A special lecture, Mirth, Myth and Menopause, offered by Melrose-Wakefield Hospital will explore the changes of menopause, leaving you feeling energized and revitalized. The lecture will be held on Wednesday, December 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Perkins Hall, 585 Lebanon St. in Melrose.

Mirth, Myth and Menopause, will take a lighter look at menopause and the anxious feelings that sometimes accompany it. Humorist Loretta LaRoche will put new light into life through the medicine of laughter. She will be sure to help persons feel young again with a renewed sense of oneself as a vibrant and valuable person.

Pre-registration and a $10 fee are required for Mirth, Myth and Menopause. For more information or to register, please call the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Education Department at (617) 979-3508.

DIZZINESS SUPPORT GROUP MEETING

The Greater Boston Chapter of the Vestibular Disorders Association of America will meet on Thursday, December 10, from 6 to 8 p.m. and Tuesday, December 15, 3 to 5 p.m. in Dining Room B, 7th floor at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, Boston.

The support group is for people who experience dizziness or have balance disorders. Family and friends also welcome.

NARRATIVE OF A CHRISTMAS CAROL

An illustrated narrative of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" by Dr. Helen Heineman, professor of English at Framingham State College, will be presented at 2 p.m. in the Rabb Lecture Hall of the Boston Public Library in Copley Square on Thursday afternoon, December 17th.

Dr. Heineman's presentation is based on Dickens' own narrated version of his famous Christmas story using 242 slides assembled by her from almost every version of "A Christmas Carol" from the 19th century to modern times.

In 1838 Dickens conceived the idea of reading aloud from his works. He began in Birmingham, England, in an adult education facility, and offered many charitable readings at such institutions, usually around Christmas time. In 1867 he took his presentation on tour to America, beginning and ending in Boston. Among the distinguished guests attending the Boston readings, which were held at the Tremont Temple, were Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Oliver Wendell Holmes, John Greenleaf Whittier, Charles Eliot Norton, Richard Henry Dana, James Russell Lowell and James T. Fields.

For her presentation Dr. Heineman has edited the original text that was especially prepared for reading by Dickens, complete with directions for staging and vocalization, and later revised by his grandson, Sir Cedric Dickens.

The program is sponsored by the BPL's Never Too Late Group and is free and open to the public. FM listening receivers for the hard of hearing are available upon request. For additional information, please contact the Boston Public Library at (617) 536-5400, Ext. 295.

MARCH OF DIMES CELEBRITY PRO-AM

The Nashoba Valley Ski Area in Westford will host the fourth annual March of Dimes Celebrity Pro-Am Ski Classic on Saturday, December 19 at 1:30 p.m. It promises to be an exciting day as 20 teams of four racers each go head to head in a dual giant slalom competition.

Each team will consist of four local racers, a local celebrity, and a professional skier from the U.S. Pro Ski Team. Some of the celebrities attending this year are: Mike Lynch, Channel 5 sports anchor; Jim Lonborg, former Red Sox great; Oedipus of WBCN-FM; and some of the biggest stars on the professional ski circuit.

A four-person Team Package includes entry in the Pro-Am ski race, eight tickets to the awards party, souvenir team photos, souvenir racing bibs, and four sponsor pledge kits. Individuals may also register and will be grouped into teams on the day of the event.

Skiers of all skill levels are welcome, but registrations are limited and accepted on a first come, first served basis. Form a team today and help the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies. Please call 1-800-458-0039 to register and receive your pledge kits.

ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AVAILABLE

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all state to qualify.

Much of this money goes unused. A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of factual information is available for student athletes. it takes them step by step through the important process of getting an athletic scholarship and includes college and conference listings.

For information on how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship, send a #10 self addressed, stamped envelope to the National Sports Foundation, 611A Willow Drive, P.O. Box 940, Oakhurst, NJ 07755.

YOUNG WIDOWS & WIDOWERS MEET

Young Widows and Widowers, Ltd., a non-profit, non-sectarian self help support organization for younger widowed men and women, conducts weekly support groups in the communities of Braintree, Framingham, Leominster, Lynnfield, North Andover and Manchester, NH.

The Northern Essex chapter meets on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. at First United Methodist Church, Rte. 133 at Rte. 114, North Andover. For more information contact Francyne Fuller at (508) 475-8186.

"TeenShare," a support group for teens who have lost a parent or sibling through death, meets weekly, same time and place. For more information on that group, contact Sharon (508-470-1565) or Ginny (508-475-7153).

SUPPORT GROUP FOR GRIEVING CHILDREN

Hospice Care, Inc. is sponsoring Discovery, a support group for grieving children and their families. Discovery is a structured, six-week support group offering a safe place for children and their families to share their feelings about the death of someone close to them.

The group will meet on six, consecutive Thursday evenings from 6 to 7:30 p.m. beginning on Thursday, January 21 through February 25. The meetings will be held at the First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church located at 630 Massachusetts Ave., Arlington. Discovery is offered at no charge to children and their families in the community. Pre-registration and an interview are required.

Hospice Care, Inc. is a non-profit organization offering medical care and supportive services to people with life-limiting illnesses and their loved ones living northwest of Boston. For more information and to register for Discovery, please contact Mollie Reinhart, Assistant Director at (617) 648-3172.

GALBRAITH TO SPEAK IN READING

The Friends of the Reading Public Library are sponsoring a special lecture to be given by John Kenneth Galbraith, a world renowned economist, teacher and author. This lecture will take place at 2 p.m. on Sunday, December 13, in the auditorium at Reading Memorial High School. Dr. Galbraith has been asked to speak on rebuilding communities on local, national and international levels.

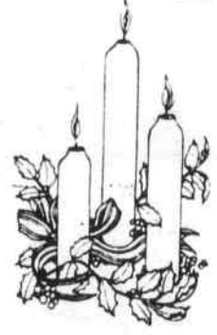

In the 1940's Galbraith branched out into government work and organized the wartime economic policy. He was given the Medal of Freedom for his wartime service. He had numerous other public assignments including Ambassador to India from 1961 to 1963 as well as serving as a presidential advisor.

In addition his books such as "The Affluent Society" have educated a generation of students in economics while selling into the millions. "The Culture of Contentment," his latest book, was published this year.

General admission is $5 with student and senior citizen admission at $3. Tickets may be purchased at the door but can be purchased beforehand at the Reading Public Library check-out desk. For more information call the reference desk at the Reading Public Library at (617) 944-0804.

ANTHONY MANCONI

It was on a very cold day in December 1943. The British Luxury Liner, Queen Mary, was docked at the Fish Pier on Northern Avenue in Boston. The ship's crew, Naval personnel and hundreds of shipyard workers worked three shifts (around the clock). We were given three days to convert a 3,000 passenger ocean liner to a 13,000 capacity "troopship." I was in charge of one small section of the ship where men and women worked furiously building bunks in staterooms that normally accommodated two passengers to a 30-troop capacity. The job completed, John O'Brien, Tony Gatto, Kevin Frawley and I walked down the gangway, then to a Northern Avenue bus stop. We were standing there in the bitter cold at 5 o'clock in the morning, when a Salvation Army Canteen van stopped. An overhead door flew open and a "lassie" shouted, "You must be frozen lads. Come here and have a cup of coffee."

On the bus ride to South Boston, John, Tony, Kevin and I solemnly vowed that we would "Never, ever walk by a Salvation Army lad or lassie without making a contribution." I'm sure we have all kept that promise through the years. Folks, please, especially during the holidays, don't walk by - stop and give a generous donation. Believe me folks, the Salvation Army members will never walk by you if you need help!

A bank manager was interviewing a prospective cashier. He was asked several questions relative to the position of handling great sums of money. The bank manager then asked, "Where have you been in the last four years?" The applicant smiled and said, "I've been in yale and my name is Yimmy Yohnson." He didn't get the job.

My nephew, Dennis Tully, is on the high school track team. He is proficient in the 100-yard dash but can't seem to get up the "go-power" to walk out with the trash...Do you want to make a hit at your office, home or club? Ask someone to place his or her hand on the glass of a door or window then ask, "Do you feel the 'pane'?"...No one ever climbed a mountain by looking at it...It sure was cold this morning. I looked out my window and saw a chicken walking with a 'capon.'

An old Yankee slogan, "Use it up-wear it out-make it do-or do without."...The codfish lays ten thousand eggs, the homely hen lays one. The codfish never cackles to tell you what she's done. And so we scorn the codfish, while the humble hen we prize. Which only goes to show you, "It pays to advertise!"

Salinas, California is known as "The salad bowl of the nation." In the morning the farm workers join hands and say, "lettuce pray."... When Sir William Gladstone was persistent in trying to get a measure passed to benefit the poor people of England, Queen Victoria admonished Gladstone saying, "You forgot who I am. I am Queen Victoria of England!" "Your Majesty," Sir Gladstone replied, "you forgot who I am. I am the 'people' of England." It would be wise (it seems to me) for some office holders to realize that they are not omnipotent.

At a college reunion, a grad who had struck it rich in business said to his former professor, "Sir, I would like to do something for my Alma Mater. In what subjects did I excel?" "In my class," the professor replied, "you slept most of the time." "Excellent suggestion," said the old grad, "In that case I'll build a dormitory."

A lion tamer at the Barnum and Bailey Circus was asked, "Isn't your job dangerous? Aren't you afraid you'll get hurt?" The lion tamer smiled and said, "This job is a snap compared to what I used to be. I was a school bus driver."...When Dennis Tully received a card that said, "Yuletide Greetings" he asked Vinny Harrington of Reading what the words meant. Vinny told him, "Dennis, it's like this. Loan me fifty bucks and 'yule tide' me over till after New Years."

Paul Simon said to me, "Chipper, I think the fence company employees are on strike. I saw a lot of 'pickets' all around the place this morning."...The late Jimmy Durante bet on a horse at the Santa Anita Racetrack that lost in a "photo finish." Bobby DiStasio, former jockey great, said to Jimmy, "What that horse needed was a rider like me." Jimmy smiled and replied, "Bobby, what that horse really needed was a nose like mine!"

They are sure that they found Beethoven's body because he was 'decomposing.'...My Aunt Nora just read that Chip and shouted, "That goes for all your jokes, puns and quips, too!"...Mark Twain said, "When I was a boy of 14 my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But, when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years."

Office Richie Serino was asked by a woman, "Officer, can you see me across the street?" "Lady," Richie replied, "You're so fat, I could see you if you were standing a mile away."...According to legend, Lady Godiva rode naked on a white horse through the streets of Coventry, England. She did this because of the burdensome tax imposed on the people. When a crowd gathered in the city square awaiting Lady Godiva's historic ride, a woman (like my Aunt Nora) turned to her husband and said, "You'd think all you men never saw a 'white horse' before!"

Dreamboats: Tara Cunniff, Malden; Stephanie Rotondo, Medford; Patti Williams, Winchester.

Super Stars: Christopher Sardella, Wakefield; Paul Simon, Stoneham; Eugene Nigro, Reading; Meghan Haggerty, Woburn.

The answer to last week's riddle is -- "The hen will lay a dozen eggs in 18 days."

"Lifeline" offers elderly independence and security

The holiday gift of independence and security is easy to give this year with the gift of Lifeline, the emergency response system that links individuals with immediate medical care.

This unique gift will provide that special person in your life the security, confidence, and peace of mind they need to help them to continue to live independently. Over 250 area residents have already chosen the Lifeline Program at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital. By pushing their Lifeline button, these people can have access to immediate, dependable medical attention any time, day or night.

MWH offers two types of emergency response units: traditional non-voice units and voice units. With both units, medical personnel respond to a call for help by telephoning the individual to determine his or her needs. Voice units provide enhanced response for those emergencies when the individual is unable to reach a telephone. Both units offer immediate response and a direct link to medical professionals who will then contact the people you need - family, friends, paramedics, firefighters or police.

Unlike some other programs, the MWH Lifeline does not require purchase of the unit. The equipment can be rented for a small monthly fee and the contract can be canceled without penalty at any time.

To inquire about giving the holiday gift of independence, confidence, and security, or for a free brochure information on the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Lifeline Program, call Melrose-Wakefield Lifeline at (617) 979-3475.

"The Distinguished Gentleman"

by Rochelle Flynn

"The Distinguished Gentleman" Starring Eddie Murphy, Lane Smith, Sheryl Lee Ralph, Victoria Rowell, Grant Shaud. Directed by Jonathan Lynn. Screenplay by Marty Kaplan. Produced by Leonard Goldberg, Michael Peyser. Rated R.

In Frank Capra's 1939 comedy, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," Jimmy Stewart was an idealistic young congressman who found nothing but corruption in the U.S. Senate. In "The Distinguished Gentleman," Eddie Murphy is a conman who is looking for nothing but corruption in the U.S. Congress, but finds a conscience along the way.

Now, there's no comparison between Capra's classic tale of Americana to this rough and rowdy comedy, but Murphy makes us laugh a lot more than you would have expected. As Thomas Jefferson Johnson, Murphy is a quick-thinking conman with a gift for mimicry. When he discovers the recently deceased congressman in his district was named Jeff Johnson, Murphy's character runs for office on name recognition. And he wins.

Part of the fun in this movie comes from the fact that the exaggeration is only a hair's breadth away from the truth. Johnson squeaks into office because half the people in his district didn't even know their congressman had died. And when he arrives in Babylon on the Potomac, Johnson quickly learns that the scams he's run in the past are similar to the scams he'll need to deal with other members of Congress and all those moneyed lobbyists.

Arriving in Washington with his small band of fast-talking cronies, Johnson soon discovers D.C. is his kind of place. After all, a shakedown is a shakedown, no matter what city you are in. But when the stakes get too high, Johnson realizes he may be able to do the right thing with his new political power.

Even though we can see where the story is headed about half-way into it, Murphy does wonders with the material. Charismatic and likable, his conman congressman may be greedy, but you know he's a good guy. And in his smiling, chameleon-like manner, Johnson (and Murphy) is able to teach Congress a pointed lesson when he worms his way onto powerful committees simply because there are so few minorities on the Hill. Gee, just like real life.

But Johnson's ability to accept a situation and go with the flow is what makes the movie so irreverent and witty. He can't change the system, but he can use it. Beating someone at their own game is a plot director Jonathan Lynn also used in "My Cousin Vinny." Lynn knows how to keep the action gliding along while extracting stellar performances from his supporting cast. Lane Smith is irascible as a powerful pol who bears more than a passing resemblance to Richard Nixon. And Johnson's scam mongers turned Congressional aides - Sheryl Lee Ralph, Sonny Gaines and Victor Rivers - hold their own next to Murphy's top-notch impersonations.

Short Takes

The Bodyguard is a truly, truly bad movie. Kevin Costner stars as the upright bodyguard to singer Whitney Houston, who has obviously never acted before. The draggy plot borders on the ridiculous and since there's no chemistry between Houston and Costner, this doesn't even make for good romantic trash. Rated R. *

Aladdin may not be a Disney classic, but it is a lot of fun, Robin Williams' witty performance as a big blue genie is a non-stop vaudevillian act, as he hurls jokes to the kiddies before flinging others at their parents. The music may not blow you away and the animation is less than lush, but the rat-a-tat humor and strong characters make this a success. Rated G.  1/2

Malcolm X masterfully captures the emotional undercurrent of the fifties and sixties while humanizing the controversial black leader. Though too long, this film is nearly brilliant, thanks to a bravura performance by Denzel Washington, a heartfelt script and catchy visuals. Writer/director Spike Lee is such a convincing filmmaker it may be difficult to remember that we are not watching history, but merely Lee's version of it. Rated R.  1/2

Bram Stoker's Dracula is brooding, evocative and not what you might expect. It works as a haunting visual feast, but if you anticipate a scarefest, look elsewhere. Director Francis Ford Coppola's agile and imaginative camera has brought to life an eerie romance featuring an intriguing performance by Gary Oldman as the Count and Winona Ryder as the object of his obsession. Unfortunately, this movie was based on smoke and mirrors rather than a concrete plot. Rated R. ***

Passenger 57 delivers a lot of action and has a few decent thrills. It is also so formulated the audience can call each punch. In other words, it's exactly what you'd expect. Wesley Snipes plays an airline security specialist whose plane is hijacked by a monstrous British terrorist. Derivative and unimaginative, the film is saved by decent action sequences and a strong performance by Snipes. Rated R. **

SAMANTHA CLEMENS, 2, and Mom Pam of Oak Street, Reading, admire jewelry at recent Fall Fair at the First Congregational Church in Stoneham. (Don Young photo)

"A River Runs Through It" is a bittersweet story of a Montana family that is conveyed with much intimacy and humor, thanks to Robert Redford's sublime direction and the lyrical language of Norman Maclean's autobiographical novella. Humor figures mightily into this mix of family, fly fishing and religion, though at its heart is an honest and poignant tale of acceptance and familial love. Rated PG. ****

Consenting Adults is another of those movies about a lovely suburban family that turns into a nightmare - both literally and cinematically. Kevin Kline plays the jingle writer whose new best friends turn out to be the neighbors from hell. The script often doesn't jibe and the formulaic plot puts the chills just where we'd expect. Rated R. **

Of Mice and Men director/actor Gary Sinise has put a new spin on this John Steinbeck tale that makes it a classic for the 90s. His thoughtful and emotional adaptation, filmed in muted golds and rich earth tones, makes us painfully aware of the beauty of the California countryside that will never belong to the day laborers who work the land. Fine performances, especially by John Malkovich as the simple-minded Lennie and Ray Walston as an aged farm hand, add to this deeply moving film. Rated PG-13. 1/2

The Mighty Ducks is extremely formulaic - think of "The Bad News Bears" on ice. But the movie is so relentlessly upbeat you can't help but smile as Emilio Esteves learns about humanity, thanks to a raggedy hockey team he's forced to coach. Not something adults would seek out, but fun if you are going with the kids. Rated PG. **

Glengarry Glen Ross is a verbal ballet from David Mamet that is funny and sparkling in its rough way. Mamet is a genius at word play and his four characters in salesmen hell know what to do with his edgy language. Al Pacino and Jack Lemmon especially help to capture the rhythms, truths and vulgarity of Mamet's 1984 Pulitzer Prize-winner. Rated R. ***

The Last of the Mohicans is one of those huge films with lots of magical movie moments. But once you get past all that swelling music, there are some great action scenes. Daniel Day-Lewis plays Nathaniel Poe, renamed from James Fenimore Copper's Natty Bumpo. Day-Lewis is the reason to see this film, as there is much fun to be had watching him shoot his flintlock rifle while running after the enemy. The scenery and battles are fab, even if the whole thing, revised plot included, is a bit too Hollywood. Rated R.  1/2

Singles is a fun, if somewhat predictable comedy by writer/director Cameron Crowe ("Fast Times at Ridgemont High"). This Twentysomething paean to love in the 1990s and the Seattle music sound dishes up witty dialogue and intriguing characters. Krya Sedgwick, Campbell Scott and Bridget Fonda make for an appealing cast. All told, it's a funny and clever flick, even if the ending is exactly what we expect. Rated PG-13. ***

Sneakers is one of those Hollywood anomalies -- it is bitingly clever, fast-paced and holds up right through to the end. Robert Redford leads a crew of burglers who work for banks and insurance agencies to make sure security systems are all they should be. But Redford walks into a con that is one smoke bomb and red herring after another. Boisterous good fun. Rated PG-13.  1/2

Enchanted April is an engaging look at four unhappy British women in the early 1920s who find peace of mind on an idyllic Italian vacation. This witty and wise movie is about friendship and inner healing. That it is set in a glorious locale, cast with remarkable actors and lovingly directed only adds to the script's charm. Rated PG. 1/2

Holiday "Parental Stress Line"

The holiday season brings with it excitement but it can also bring stress, aggravation and family turmoil. The Parental Stress Line, a state-wide 24 hour, anonymous child abuse prevention program of Parent's and Children's Services, reports that the holiday season adds stress to the parents that call the toll free number 1-800-632-8188. Callers receive empathic listening and immediate emotional support from non-judgmental trained telephone counselors at any time of the day or night. Since the Line's inception in 1979, trained volunteer counselors have handled 145,000 calls from parents experiencing stressful relationships with their children. The Parental Stress Line has received a 9% increase in calls during the past four months.

Parents who picture their family sitting around a Norman Rockwell holiday dinner have unrealistic expectations. The holiday season magnifies pressure on every family member both financially and emotionally. A child requesting several gifts at the holiday time leaves parents feeling frustrated and disappointed when they can not afford to make their child's holiday "perfect."

Parents or a parent who must provide financially, cook and clean must now add the stress of preparing for the holidays, meeting the holiday expectations for the children, as well as interacting with the extended family. Due to this additional stress, parental anger and frustration is often taken out on their children. "Parents end up doing more than usual at this time of year and it adds to their hectic life," stated Sarah Belcher, Parental Stress Line Director. "Parents find it helpful to call the Line before losing control with their children in order to talk about frustrations and pressure they are feeling. Calling the Line can help parents gain perspective on what things are most important to them during the holiday season," explained Sarah.

Holidays can also intensify personal feelings about the callers' extended family, personal relationships, and childhood memories. "During the holiday time, we receive a lot of calls about parents facing stress about how to share the holidays with their child's other parent," commented Kimberly Wolfe, a volunteer telephone counselor for the PSL. The 77 volunteer telephone counselors all share sincere concern and caring for each caller.

The Parental Stress Line receives funding from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, the Massachusetts Department of Social Services and private donations. Parents from at least 325 out of the Commonwealth's 351 cities and towns have called the Parental Stress Line since its inception in 1979.

Your body's largest and most important part

"It's the largest and most important part of your body," says John Forrest, M.D. "It's also the body part that receives more wear, tear and abuse than any other."

What is it? "Your skin," answers Dr. Forrest, dermatologist at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. "Your body's largest organ -- your skin -- shields and protects all of your other organs. And while it's the one part of our body we take most for granted, it's also the part that needs the most diligent care and attention."

Dr. Forrest says wind, sun, cold and bacteria are all natural enemies of the skin. "The elements rob the skin of moisture, leaving it feeling dry and chapped. And bacteria can give rise to skin infections which can spread to other family members.

"That's why cleansing with a mild antibacterial soap like Lever 2000 is important -- for everybody in the family. You want the protection of an antibacterial cleanser but you want to keep your skin soft and smooth as well."

Though it may seem soothing, washing with very hot water can draw out skin oils and wash them away. "Stick to quick, tepid showers," says Dr. Forrest. "If the skin on your back and shoulders is itchy, it may be that the shower's pounding spray has washed away oils. When showering, stand away from the spray."

If you do crave a soak in the tub, limit your stay to 20 minutes. "When you get out, damp-dry your skin. While your skin is still moist, glide on a moisturizer to help lock the moisture into your skin," says Dr. Forrest.

Carol to animals at Stone Zoo

The Stone Zoo is putting a new spin on the time-honored tradition of Christmas carolling this year with a day of "Carolling to the Animals" on Saturday, December 13.

Bring the whole family from noon to 3:30 p.m. and help get Major the polar bear and all the other animals into the spirit of the season with a little holiday harmonizing.

Take the afternoon off from the shopping crush and croon to the colobus monkeys or serenade a swan with Silent Night. And don't worry if you can't carry a note in a bucket, you'll have a captive audience.

Along with the carolling, "Santa Bear" will be on hand for pictures and to listen to the kids' Christmas wish-lists. Also, there will be snacks, hot drinks and more.

For more information on this day of music and mirth call (617) 422-2002, Ext. 108.

Tips on making meringue shells

Q: Why do my meringue shells become hard?

A: A meringue that turns out hard may have too much sugar in proportion to egg whites. In our recipe, we recommend 3/4 cup sugar per three egg whites. Adding 1/4 teaspoon of cream of tartar to those proportions of sugar and egg whites helps to stabilize the egg whites and contributes to a more tender meringue. Also, if it's not baked for a long time at a low temperature, shell may be tough and chewy instead of tender and crisp.

Winter holiday season among hardest for allergy sufferers

The winter holidays may be one of the hardest times of the year for allergy sufferers, according to Patricia Goldman, executive director of the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, New England Chapter.

"What seems to be a bad cold every year at this time may in fact be a reaction to one of more allergy 'triggers' which are so prevalent during the holidays," Goldman says. "These 'triggers' may include the dust on holiday ornaments being taken out of storage, pollen on the Christmas tree, smoke from the fireplace or mold on the firewood. Many people mistake allergies for recurrent colds, but indoor allergy symptoms, such as sneezing, runny nose, wheezing, congestion and itchy, watery eyes are more chronic."

The Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, headquartered in Washington, D.C., recommends the following steps to avoid being ill with allergies during the holiday season:

-Use an artificial Christmas tree or, if your family insists on a live tree, wash it before you bring it into the house to remove the pollen. Wash the trunk with a solution of bleach and water to decrease the chances of mold developing. Put your tree up late; take it down early.

-Dust off your holiday ornaments and decorations outside before brining them into the house. Wear disposable gloves to decorate the tree to avoid skin contact with the tree sap. When you take ornaments down, wash them and then seal them in plastic bags.

-Bring firewood in only as you need it. Don't stack firewood in the house

-Be sure your fireplace flue works and that the fireplace vents well to eliminate as much smoke as possible. Invest in fireplace doors if you can and keep them closed. Limit the times that you use the fireplace.

-Avoid using scented candles, fragrant floral arrangements or potpourri if scents bother you.

-Keep indoor humidity below 50 percent, depending upon comfort and health. Mold grows if humidity is too high. Consider a dehumidifier, if necessary.

-If you're taking medications, be sure to stick to your regular medication schedule, despite hectic holiday plans.

-If allergy symptoms persist or become severe, see your physician.

The Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America is dedicated to finding a cure for and controlling asthma and allergic diseases. It serves the estimated 50 million Americans who suffer from asthma and allergies through the support of research, patient education and public awareness. For information, call (617) 965-7771 or write to the foundation at 220 Boylston Street, Chestnut Hill, 02167.

ONE OF 267 PIECES OF ARTWORK is admired, at the recent North Suburban Art Exhibit at Boston Technology in Wakefield, by (left to right) Luke Volpe, Exhibit Chairman, Grace Cherwek of Lynnfield, Fran Foy of Reading and Carolyn Poor of Reading, all committee members. The exhibit draws artists from throughout the North Shore area and benefits both the Wakefield and Reading scholarship foundations. 192 artists and an additional 75 students, showed their works.

Three day paraplegic deer hunt

1992 marks the 20th anniversary of the special three-day deer hunt for paraplegic sportsmen hosted annually by the Massachusetts Division of Fisheries and Wildlife with help from the Department of Environmental Management, interested sportsmen and local landowners. The hunt was organized in two general areas of Berkshire County this year - Williamstown and the Mt. Washington State Forest - and 22 hunters ranging from teenagers to senior citizens were divided almost equally between the two locations. They hunted on state forest land and private property with the permission of cooperative landowners. Most of them hunted from ground stands in wheelchairs, placed in likely locations near deer runs by volunteers and Division personnel.

A total of 11 deer were taken by the hunters this year: three bucks and two does in the northern Berkshire hunt based in Williamstown; four does and two bucks in the southern Berkshire hunt based at the Mt. Washington State Forest. While the hunters failed to reach the record paraplegic harvest of 14 deer taken in 1985, they enjoyed an excellent 50% success rate, and nearly everyone reported seeing some deer. None of the hunters attempted to take a deer with archery equipment this season, but the oldest hunter - 70 something - was the first participant in the hunt's history to use a blackpowder gun rather than a conventional shotgun, and he was successful with the primative firearm!

On behalf of the participants who enjoyed their special opportunity to spend a few days in the field, the Division extends its thanks to the landowners/sponsors, Mt. Washington State Forest personnel, and to the many helpers and volunteers who made the hunt an enjoyable experience for all of the participants. School notes

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

--A School Committee member recall may be the talk of the town in Wilmington but ... have you read yet about Reading's unique assistant superintendent search?

"School Committee members last night aired out their differences on the recent controversy surrounding the hiring process for the position of Assistant Superintendent," reads the article in the Reading edition of the Daily Times Chronicle.

"Parker Middle School Principal Jack Delaney, who was one of six candidates for the post, withdrew himself from consideration last week, after he learned that Committee Chairman Matthew Cummings and member Barbara Philbrick had privately notified Superintendent Dr. Robert Munnelly that they would not support his bid

"Dr. Munnelly said he carried 'major disappointment' with the situation and called for reforms in the future. He states that Delaney had not been treated properly"

--It always takes a few weeks to recover from the effects of the Middlesex East leprechaun who recently yet again has hit "School Notes."

As with the emergency "Guide to Reading About the Towns" of "Times" just past, please note that if you're reading "School Notes" and it suddenly - as opposed to gradually - seems to be not making sense, please imagine it back into its proper order.

--Another first in Wilmington: "Wilmington Arena Authority has historically shown support for the Wilmington High School hockey teams through approaches such as free early morning ice rental, donation of space for seasonal storage of equipment, gifts of Bruins' sticks and Bruins' used skates, partial payment for captains' practice and discounted skate sharpening," writes Al Reidy, Chairman of the Wilmington Arena Authority, in a letter to parents and players.

"The upcoming season, however, is the first in which team members will be paying the school athletic fee of $100 per player. During these difficult financial times, this fee may prevent some returning and new players from playing hockey this year.

"At my suggestion, and with the consensus of the Board of Directors, Wilmington Arena Authority is offering to pay the $100 athletic fee for each player on the 1992-93 varsity and junior varsity hockey teams. This payment will be made in the form of individual checks made out to Wilmington High School A.A. in the name of each rostered team member. The checks will be given to Coach Scanlon as soon as final rosters are set. A photocopy of the check will be given to each player.

"We hope that this assistance to our young athletes will provide an opportunity for all qualified players to participate."

--Interested Burlington citizens have been invited to participate in Burlington High's upcoming two-year self-evaluation process.

Committees involved in the process will meet at least once a month during the school year, tackling the following areas of accreditation: statement of purpose; curriculum and instruction; student support services; library technology and media services; administration, faculty and support staff; school facilities; community support and involvement; financial support; school climate; and assessment of student union.

Reading High community members are so proud of the high school's recent statement of philosophy, one result of its ongoing self-evaluation, that copies of it have been framed and now hang in every Reading High classroom.

Were "School Notes" to receive a copy of a copy of the new Reading High philosophy, we'd be happy to share it.

"M.E.'s for You"

"M.E." Santa seeks support

By JIM HAGGERTY

The Middlesex East Santa is now 5-years-old.

For the past five years, the publishers of newspapers involved with M.E. have banded together in order to help the Salvation Army during the holiday seasons.

In the past four years, the M.E. Santa has collected thousands of dollars that go directly to the Salvation Army's office in Boston and are distributed locally to communities in this area.

The traditional Salvation Army red seal, along with its distinctive red kettles, are all that are usually needed as an appeal during this period of time. In recent years, many who have been helped themselves have been major givers to the M.E. Santa in order that they may share their yuletime spirit with others more in need.

The publishers of the M.E. newspapers become the bellringers for this one-month period before Christmas. The bellringers tradition dates back to 1891 and is now over a 100-years-old with the tradition going stronger than ever in this area.

As an example, a recent M.E. and local appeal for clothering at the Woburn Mall brought a tremendous response from area residents. The success was so great a second appeal went strong again this past Saturday.

The ability of the Salvation Army to put itself in a position to help others is indeed commendable. However, the "Army" cannot take and carry the kettles alone. Others, such as the M.E. newspapers and their subscribers must pause a minute and think about the need in this time of a down economy.

For the first time this year, the Daily News Mercury of Malden, Medford and Melrose is joining the plea for the M.E. Santa. The newspaper has recently become a member of the group.

The theme again this year is "Sharing Is Caring" and the fund drive starts N-O-W.

THE SALVATION ARMY

Sharing Is Caring

"Sharing is Caring"

Middlesex East Publications, in association with the Salvation Army will sponsor "M.E. Santa" this holiday season to benefit needy individuals and families in the area.

In many past years, the Salvation Army has worked quietly within the communities. But this year it is asking for assistance due to increased pressure to provide services.

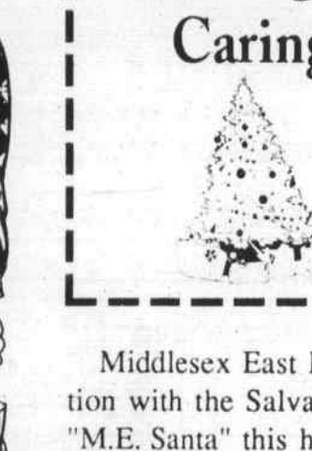

Funds will be distributed locally in the M.E. communities, which include Wilmington, Tewksbury, North Reading, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham, Burlington, Woburn, Wakefield, Winchester, Malden, Medford and Melrose.

A list of contributors will be published in Middlesex East throughout December.

Corporations and individuals are encouraged to include their names as part of their donations as efforts are made to promote the fund.

The "M.E. Santa" effort is actually part of the Salvation Army's ongoing service program. Please Help!

Donations should be mailed to:

Malden Hospital sponsors 2nd annual toy drive

Following a tremendously successful Thanksgiving Food Drive to benefit two Malden-based food pantries, The Malden Hospital is ready to launch its second annual Holiday Toy Drive. The hospital will be collecting new, unwrapped toys for children of homeless families being sheltered in Town Line Inn in Malden and Paul Revere House in Revere. The collection site will be located in the main lobby of the hospital through December 17th, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

With the help of Health Care for the Homeless, a Boston-based advocacy organization, and student volunteers from Harvard University, The Malden hospital will identify individual children (first names only) and their holiday toy "wish lists." The Hospital will display, on removable gift tabs, the first name of the child, his/her age, and what he/she would like for Christmas.

The Malden Hospital will also be collecting gifts for parents. "It's important to include the mothers in the gift giving. Everyday I see the mothers neglect their own health and nutritional needs in order to insure that their children are fed and their medical requirements met. A present for the mothers would make a world of difference -- it would show them that they are special. They deserve a happy holiday too," stated Jean Malloy, of Health Care for the Homeless.

Hospital employees and community members are invited to "adopt" a child or parent by coming to the hospital and removing a gift tag from the giant stocking located in the main lobby through the toy drive. Once people have purchased the gift, the tags should be attached to the gift and dropped off at the collection site. In addition to donations of toys and gifts, monetary donations will be accepted. Organizations or businesses wishing to participate in the toy drive can arrange for donations to be picked up by calling (617) 397-6501.

For more information on The Holiday Toy Drive, please call The Malden Hospital's Information Desk at (617) 397-6501.

THE MALDEN HOSPITAL TOY DRIVE, to benefit area homeless children and parents, will be held through December 17th. Call (617) 397-6501 for more information.

Art Show

North Suburban winners announced

The 1992 North Suburban Art Exhibit which was recently held at the Boston Technology Company in Wakefield has once again proved to be a showcase for the talented artists in the area. Over 200 pieces of art were on display along with works submitted by local students in Reading and Wakefield.

Betty Lou Schlemm of Rockport, Herb Goldberg and Ronald Kullaway, who both reside in Marblehead, were the judges for this year's exhibit.

The award ceremonies were conducted by the well-known radio announcer, Fred Foy. The following artists received blue ribbon awards.

Allied American Agency Award - William J. Maloney of Saugus for his oil painting, The Purple Clematis.

The Beal Companies Award - Ruth Carter Wiergenga of Lynnfield for her pastel, Oil World Echoes.

Boston Technology Award - Andrew Kusmin of Westford for his watercolor, Brush! Brush! Brush!

Frame Shack Award - Luke Volpe of Melrose for his watercolor, December Rain.

Melrose Wakefield Hospital Association Award - David J. Souza of Gloucester for his photograph, Pilings.

Reading Art Association Award - Franco Cutietta of Woburn for his photograph, Games Men and Boys Play.

Ten Ribbons for excellence were also awarded to the following:

Excellence in Oil - Alan Eddy of Reading for his painting, Land, Sea and Sky.

Excellence in Sculpture - Paul Wasserboehr of Andover for Hibiscus.

Excellence in Aquamedia - Marie McPartlin of Reading for her watercolor, My Barrister.

Excellence in Other Medium - Ginger Greenblatt of Somerville for her charcoal portrait, Lisa.

The Popular Vote Award was given to Alta Lynch of Winchester for her acrylic painting, Coming Ashore (Mute Swans). This award is voted by those attending the exhibit.

The original watercolor, Fish Pier, donated by Lee Ferrara of Winchester, was won this year by Rhoda Tibedo of Lynn.

Three ribbons were awarded this year for the student show. Sandra Cyr of Reading High School; Jeffrey Hardacker of Wakefield High School; and a sculpture done as a group project by four students at Reading High School: Christine Jesser, Lisa Pherson, Shannon Rogan and Michael Tremberth were all ribbon winners.

The planning committee for the North Suburban Art Exhibit extends its appreciation to the many volunteers who helped to make this exhibit an artistic and financial success. The proceeds raised from this exhibit are donated to scholarships. The committee is extremely grateful to the local merchants who supported this show by contributing ads in the program and posting fliers in their establishments.

The sponsors of this year's show were Allied American Agency, The Beal Companies, Boston Technology, Frame Shack, Melrose Wakefield Hospital Association, and the Reading Art Association. It is with their generosity, support and community spirit that this exhibit is made possible.

Veterans Q and A

Q: I am a drilling Reservist with a six-year obligation in effect. I am thinking about enrolling in school, but I will need some remedial training. Can benefits be paid under the Montgomery GI Bill for the Selected Reserve for this type of training?

A: You may be able to receive benefits for remedial, deficiency and refresher courses if you have a six-year obligation that begins after Sept. 30, 1990. The remedial and deficiency courses must be necessary for the pursuit of a program of education.
